Victor Hoagland reports that he now has completed one brooder house with hover connected with gas ready to receive the club's quota of pheasant chicks when they arrive. It is going to be interesting to watch the progress of this new phase of the club's activity.

A group of sportsmen known as the Wild Turkey Club have ordered 50 wild turkey eggs from Michigan and will turn them over to the West Almond CCC camp in the care of Mr. McMinn. These eggs will be hatched at Alfred College and reared by the CCC boys for educational purposes. Dr. Scott was the largest contributor.

Tuesday we vote on daylight saving time in our village. I rather expect there will be considerable comment on this subject in Wandering Willie's column.

There have been reports coming in regarding dogs running rabbits and chasing pheasants lately. The owners of these dogs are letting themselves in for trouble if this is not stopped. The club has released pheasants in this area from the State Conservation Department with the hope that they will take up a permanent home and raise families. The law forbids the owner or harbinger of a hunting dog to release or allow said dog or dogs to run at large during the closed season except a period in the early fall set aside by law allowing the owner of a hunting dog to take it afield to train it for hunting purposes under certain restrictions. I hope no one has to pay any fines on this account so watch your dog. It only takes a keen-nosed hound or bird dog a minute to destroy a pheasant's nest and rip up the six or eight tiny rabbits in a nest. Think this over and then tie or shut up your pet hunting pup and we will all have more hunting next fall.

Waftings From WANDERING WILLIE

THE question of daylight saving time is beginning to get warmish in our fair city. We have heard long speeches and arguments and when the voters get going next Tuesday it should make an interesting election.

Personally we can't conceive of any village standing against the world in this respect. The only two nearby places on slow time at the present are Elm Valley and Tip Top and we have heard that parts of both are on fast time.

When it is all summed up, slow time in Andover causes more dark circles under local folks eyes than anything else could. If they want to go to Wellsville or Hornell for a show or to pass the evening they have to hurry like the devil when they get thru work, then get to their destination to find that they have been considering slow time and are an hour late.

WHILE we're on the subject of slow time and fast time, the firemen's comedy "Lyric Time" will be at 8:15 "cow time," so don't get to the show on fast time or you will have to kill time.

The play, definitely not another minstrel show, should give the folks of the village a whale of a lot of chuckles judging from the script and the characters chosen.

In our opinion it will be worth more than the price of admission to see "Barney" O. J. Kupp play the part of a hard-boiled thug, "Brad," in the play, Police Officer "Dave" MacKay as a calm tobacco-chewing stage-door man (and by the way, the fire boys had quite a time convincing "Dave" that he was cut out for that part); and last but not least the department's president, Oliver Kemp will leave his trucks behind for the two nights and actually quiet down enough to play the part of a "local boy" who makes good. We have heard plenty concerning the rest of the cast but really do believe that this type of play will give Andoverites something just a little different.

P.S.—They couldn't rope "Bus" Childs in the play for a part at all.

THE bus drivers over to Shirey's garage have taken unto themselves a new theme song this week, built around the words of "Swing and Sway With Dave MacKay." (This is undoubtedly derived from the famous play, "Lyric Time," now under production, now that "Gone With the Wind" has been completed.
