Safety for Bike Riders Until recently very little attention was paid to safeguarding and educating cyclists but with an ever-increasing toll of fatal accidents occurring to bicycle riders, automobile clubs in many cities are campaigning to cut down these accidents. Some of the safety rules suggest ed by these organizations include the following:

Ride in a straight line and do not change direction suddenly: keep close to the right side of the road way; obey officers, stop and go sig nals and stop signs as motorists do; ride in single file on busy streets and never more than two abreast on any street; avoid riding too fast bars; cross all street car and rai road tracks at right angles; keep th bicycle in good operating conditio
