That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

several famous champions and also pictures of her own repertoire of dives, explaining each one.

To any one who wishes to be a competitor in diving meets, Miss Smith advises getting a coach who really knows his business and she also says that anyone who is afraid to dive will never be really good.

The entire audience greatly enjoyed Miss Smith's program, and it was noted that several of our amateur swimmers and divers were greatly inspired.

Remember the Dance!

Don't forget that the second Student Council dance is being held this Saturday night, Feb. 22nd from 8:30 to 11:30, at the Andover Central School Auditorium to the music of the Del Casa Orchestra.

Tickets are 25 cents per person for high school students and 75 cents per couple for all others. The usual policy of "no stags" will be in force except for high school boys and girls who may attend individually or in couples as desired.

Unless this dance is well supported, it is doubtful whether or not any more of its kind can be held. So this is the last warning—Come prepared to have an evening full of hilarious fun.

Boys Try Out For Safety Patrol

The seventh grade, under the guidance of Miss Baker, has recently organized a safety patrol for the protection of pupils in grades 1 to 3, when crossing the highway at dismissal time.

Many of the seventh grade boys are trying out for a place on the patrol, and soon Miss Baker hopes to select eight boys from the ones who have tried out, as a permanent patrol. The boys watch the street in front of the school at mornings and afternoon dismissal, and see that the children get safely across.

Later, these boys will be equipped with badges or uniforms of some kind.

Failed Once But Tried Again

The ninth year General Science class at last succeeded, after two attempts, in finding out how a fire extinguisher should work. This great miracle was done last Friday.

The first attempt began with Mr. Maloy's warning: "Don't get too near the fire as the fire extinguisher should extend a stream about 20 feet." All took the warning that when the extinguisher was inverted it extended a stream which was only about two feet. Mr. Maloy explained how this proved that fire extinguishers should be inspected often to show better results.

The attempt made last Friday succeeded for the extinguisher had been refilled. The streams of liquid really did run 20 feet from the apparatus this time.

Two firemen, who were Dewey Northrup and Pat Lynch, rushed to the scene when the alarm was given. The two brave firemen came running from the building to the small bonfire and put the flames out with the fire extinguisher. Everyone returned to his room with the gained knowledge of how a carbon dioxide fire extinguisher really should work.

First Graders Are Scientists

The first graders became scientists on Tuesday morning and worked several experiments in the laboratory.

They discovered and proved for themselves that ice and snow take up more room or space than water. This was done by melting snow and ice. After the ice was melted, the water was boiled and the children watched the water go into the air as steam. This, they learned, was evaporation, which caused the clouds to be formed.

After returning to their room, they filled a jar with water and placed it outside the window. In about 15 minutes it started to freeze and swell. The jar broke and proved to the first graders that ice takes up more room than water.

Cupid Visits Library

Students returned to school Monday to find Cupid ruling the library bulletin board.

Miss Larkin caught the idea in a five and ten cent store while doing some purchasing. She saw the large hearts and it inspired her to make the novel bulletin board of candy hearts surrounded by frilly paper of various colors.

The heading was taken from the Woman's Home Companion, and was the appropriate "Sentimental Season."

Lady (indicating aviator's parachute): "I really don't know how you can hang from that silk thing. The suspense must be terrible."

Aviator: "No, madam, it's when the suspense isn't there that it's bad."
