The Amended Milk Marketing Order

Will NOT Provide a

Living Price for Milk!

And Farmers' Costs are RISING...

OR nearly a quarter of a century the Dairymen's League has battled valiantly for more money for farmers' milk. L We have battled for higher living standards on the farmfor happier farm families and more prosperous communities

THIS ORGANIZATION IS, OF COURSE, FOR THE MILK MARKETING ORDER

The marketing orders were patterned after the basic principles of the Dairymen's League. For nearly a quarter of a century it has been our unshaken conviction that only by control of the surplus in the hands of organized farmers could markets be steadied and farmers have a chance to approach A LIVING PRICE FOR MILK.

Of course we are for the marketing order. But we still do not believe that the proposed amendments will give farmers the increased returns they have been led to believe they would get. We believe the next few months, working under these amendments, will demonstrate that farmers will get but little more for their milk, if any, than they received during the same period last year. And this condition will come in the face of increasing

LOOK AT THIS RECORD OF EXPERIENCE VERSUS THEORY

FOR NEARLY A QUARTER OF A CENTURY we have urged that only by control of the surplus by organized farmers could markets be steadied.

FOR NEARLY A QUARTER OF A CENTURY we have fought for unity among all farmers.

FOR NEARLY A QUARTER OF A CENTURY we. have battled selfish interests who sought their own gain at the expense of farmers. FOR NEARLY A QUARTER OF A CENTURY we have argued that all farmers were entitled to an equal share of the fluid market, and by the same token that all farmers should share equally in carrying the burden of the surplus. Throughout all of our struggles we have never lost sight of the fact that only by farmers working together could these hopes and dreams be fulfilled. We urged the Rogers-Allen law which for the first time gave co-operatives in this milkshed a right and a chance to work together. On the basis of this law we urged a Federal marketing stency based on the principles we have been advocating for nearly a quarter of a century. This was the voice of experience. We opposed theorists who graued for impossible or inadequate plans. We opposed state control because EXPERIENCE had taught us that one state could not control the interstate shipment of milk. Our vosition then proved healthy and wise. If EXPERIENCE had been the guide at that time, hundreds of thousands of dollars would have been saved farmers of this milkshed.

We Urged "Vote Yes" As the Lesser of Two Evils

It is better to have a Federal Order which recognizes the principles of equalization, classification and have no Order at all. For that reason, and for that reason only, the Dairymen's League directors urged their members to "Vote Yes" on the proposed amendments. But we must reserve the right to protest vigorously and incessantly for further changes until the voices of experienced farmers are listened to in shaping the Orders under which our milk must be marketed.

WE RECOMMENDED A VOTE FOR THE MARKETING ORDER EVEN WITH THE AMENDMENTS

When the board of directors representing 30,000 farmers met recently they were firm in their belief that the principles included in the milk marketing order should be retained. They had not changed their opinion as to the value or workability o the proposed amendments. But with the order rescinded as o February 28, THE ONLY WAY the principles contained in the order could be saved would be to vote "yes" on all these

The directors of the Dairymen's League feel it is unfortunate that farmers have been led to believe they will get more money for their milk under these amendments this year than they received for their milk last year. For only under a serious condition such as war, which might bring an increased demand for manufactured products, can any such hopes be realized.

WE BELIEVE these amendments do not give farmers a large enough share of the price dealers receive for fluid milk. WE BELIEVE that the voice of experience among farmers was not given proper consideration in the building of these

WE BELIEVE that some of these amendments will not contribute to the development of true farmer co-operatives—the only real means of defense farmers have.

WE BELIEVE these amendments will tend to divide farmers since it will favor some at the expense of others. WE BELIEVE that over the next few months business men in hundreds of communities throughout the milkshed will recognize the correctness of our analysis of these amendments. WE BELIEVE it unfair that farmers be made to VOTE YES on all of these amendments—both those they consider helpful and those they consider harmful—if they would retain the fundamental principles in the order. OUR COURSE HAS NOT BEEN CHANGED

During the entire life of this organization we have never altered our purpose—and we are not changing our course now. Constant in our struggle for the benefit of all farmers—conscious of the fact that farmers were entitled to a decent standard of living—calm in the face of the most violent opposition—confident that finally the justice of our views would prevail, we continue our fight for happier farm bomes. In accordance with its long-time tradition, the Dairymen's League will move at the proper time for a revision of farmers' prices.

Our pledge still stands: we will work with other producers and other co-operatives; we will work with State and Federal Governments whenever they are constructive and help to secure fair prices. We welcome and appreciate the support of farmers and business men of the Milkshed just as we welcome the support of those elements of labor who would see
