GIVE IT A TRY!

Here's a column of special interest to you lovers of Easter (or the vacation). It will help you to thoroughly enjoy yourselves, to make new friends, to endear yourself to the neighbors and to cause your boy friend to fall into your arms. All you have to do is simple and is just this:

1. Don't work or labor, but let the dust pile in heaps and forget the dirty dishes and clothes.
2. Don't let Pop's Ford sit and rust in the garage. Fill it up (don't pay for it) and roar merrily thru crosswalks and intersections.
3. Don't go to bed until 3 any morning except the night of the day after you've collapsed. Sleep soundly and loudly until noon, then arise, refreshed and alive, and eat breakfast-dinner.
4. Don't press your best dress because "he" doesn't ever notice how you look anyway, and besides it's a holiday and people are supposed to live happily and carelessly then. It takes too much time to press "date" clothes and costs too much since electricity is so high. (Always have to be neat at school so now relax!)
5. Last and final, for Heaven's sakes don't be serious or solemn. Laugh at any and everything—smashing the fender, getting a nail in the new tire, withstanding the family's prying into "where were you," eating warmed up potatoes and even when "he" doesn't show up on the best of nights and the moon beams and the stars twinkle and soft breezes blow—even then laugh, if you're inhuman) because then you'll come back to A. C. S. with a new outlook, circles under your eyes, a worried brow and a nervous breakdown!

Private Party Proposed

In order to celebrate properly their overwhelming success in the Senior play, this class has decided to hold a private dancing party. It is still in the stages of preparation but the theme of it is somewhat like this—all Senior boys are to invite a girl who is not a Senior; all Senior girls will be escorted by a male not in the "super colossal" class. It will be held soon after the return from vacation and chiefly for fun and a class gathering. Further details will be published as soon as they can be decided upon.

Odds and Ends

In the Eskimo language "I love you" is: Univfgsaemuinaahjafican jurisagejaht. This explains why Arctic nights have to be so long.

Lady: "How are you today, little boy?"
Little Boy: "I feel pony."
Lady: "How is that?"
Little Boy: "A little hoarse."

Mr. Maloy: "What is a comet?"
Anna Hardy: "A star with a tail."
Mr. Maloy: "Very good, now name one."
Anna: "Micky Mouse."

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to what a girl has been thinking about all year.

Just remember: People have more fun than anybody!

Senior Girl Is Teacher

Last week because Mrs. MacKay was ill and unable to teach, Betty Jo Ludden acted as assistant teacher in the first grade to help Miss Butler out. Miss Ludden, it is reported by certain first graders, was a very able and well liked teacher. A certain lad said: "Ethel in the play taught us our words the other day."

Senior Play Great Success

Capacity Audience Sees Production

Playing to a capacity audience in the Central School auditorium, Friday evening, the Senior Class presented what many people have pronounced as the best class play ever presented, "The Whole Town's Talking."

The play was so well cast that it was difficult to say who played the most outstanding roles. The resourceful Mr. Simmons played by Kenneth Gath and the timid Mr. Binney played by Roland Shaff kept the audience in stitches as they became more and more involved in complicated situations. The suspicious Mrs. Simmons and their lovely daughter, Ethel, played by Anna Hardy and Betty Jo Ludden respectively, the polished Frenchman Mr. Shields played by Lyle Ordway and the stunning motion picture actress, Letty Lythe and her jealous fiancée, Donald Swift, played by Ethel Crowner and Donald Lynch, contributed their share of fun and turmoil.

Other members of the cast were Annie, the maid, played by Regina Ann Richardson, Sally and Lila played by Nancy Snyder and Eleanor Northrup, Sadie Bloom by Kathleen Howland, the taxi driver, John Lynch and the town gossipers, Violet Barney, Lucille Joyce, Mary Mesler and Virginia Rice.

The play was also produced on Thursday afternoon to a record crowd of grade children. During this matinee the part of Sadie Bloom was played by Virginia Rice.

The gross receipts from the play were over $100. After deducting the royalty and other expenses, the Seniors will have a net profit of around $70.

Class of '41 Decides

The Senior Class met Wednesday morning to decide on their class colors, motto and costumes. Caps and gowns were chosen by a unanimous vote, which is the first time this issue has not been contested. The colors are maroon and white, with boys and girls wearing them respectively. The class motto shows the real spirit of the group, not being too grave or too flippant, "Today decides Tomorrow."

With these decisions the graduating class has come one step nearer its final goal.

"It's Just Around The Corner"

The Senior Ball is just around the corner, it is said it will take place May 29 (Thurs.) in the A.C.S. auditorium to raise more money for the class of '41. "Bubbles" Cartwright's orchestra, formerly "Johnny" Fitzgerald's, is going to play for this big occasion.

Mysterious plans have been discussed for a very opportune and colorful decorative scheme, but no news will be published until after the Prom is over.

PERSONALS . . .

Elaine Pope, the two Hardy sisters and Elaine's brother contributed their Saturday night time to the skating rink.

It seems the Wellsville theatre is becoming quite a habit to Ken and Roland. They were both there Saturday this week.

Miss Barrett was host to the play cast and those concerned at Child's restaurant after the play Friday night.

Mary Mesler seems to believe that her new piano is quite enough entertainment for her.

Our wanderer, Betty Jo, wandered Thursday and Saturday to the show in Wellsville and spent the week-end riding.

Norma and Ethel Crowner paid their weekly visit to Hornell but otherwise they claim they did nothing very amusing (housecleaning).

Our guess is that Dorothy Baker is house cleaning wise, for she spent the week-end in Troupsburg.

We see that the reading habit still clings to some. Martina Lynch read a novel this week-end.

Dot Lever and friend went to Oil City Pa., Sunday.

Mr. Bergman spent Saturday in Wellsville picking a Spring outfit. (She finally decided on a pair of shoes)

U. Rice motored to Rexville Sunday to see the airplane wreck.

Hornell seems to still be the place for K. Perry also visited the great little city.

Student Scientists Organize

It's never too late to start, and thus after much discussion over the desires for a science club, a group of twenty science minded students were present at the first meeting of a newly established science club held in the laboratory on Tuesday afternoon, April 6.

It was decided that a group of officers should be chosen first of all. The result of the votes are as follows: President, Lyle Ordway; vice president, Victor Oakes; secretary, Anna Hardy; treasurer, Marilyn Hardy; curator, Arthur Temple; scout, John Ahrens.

Following the selection of officers a constitution was established as a basis for the club giving qualifications for membership, aims in such a club and general management. The club will meet once every two weeks until after it becomes better organized, and since no definite day has been set as yet, the officers will decide as to when the next meeting shall be conducted.

Members of this science club, which has not been given an official name yet, are: J. Howland, D. Emery, J. Dean, W. Vars, V. Oakes, C. Gath, D. Lynch, W. Lehman, C. Dunham, L. Ordway, J. Ahrens, A. Temple, C. Prue, M. Hardy, J. Rogers, A. Hardy, O. Greene, L. Freeland, D. Baker and D. Mead.

The junior high students are also eager for a club of this nature and though a meeting has not been held as yet, the following people have been selected from the 7th, 8th and 9th grades as members of their science club. These students were chosen as members based upon scholarship, school citizenship, general attitude and completion of class assignments. They are: M. Cannon, C. Cook, C. Hall, F. Hann, P. Lynch, V. Joyce, H. West, K. Williams, A. Fisher, D. Flint, C. Hann, K. Howland, F. Smith, C. Ordway, J. Yannie, S. McAndrew, D. Baker, W. Dougherty, J. Lynch, and L. Wintenberg.

Those not appearing on the present list have been placed on the waiting list for future admission to the club.

Your Vacation, Seniors?

Monday morning the Senior class tried various tests to decide the vacation for which they are best fitted.

These tests were given by the Rochester Business Institute, under the direction of Dr. Cornell. They included tests on English, mathematics and word meaning. They are based on accuracy and speed.

The results will be sent to the Seniors in booklet form. It is to guide them in their vocational decision.

Teachers' Interview

PRESENTING MISS CLARK

Miss Hilda Marie Clark, the second grade teacher of our school has at last come in for her share of that publicity that goes with the teaching profession.

"I was born in Andover, N. Y., and attended Andover High School. My favorite subject was French, and my aim was to be a school teacher. With all due respect to good old A. H. S., I'll have to admit that the new A. C. S. is a great improvement.

My favorite movie is the "Philadelphia Story" and my favorite book, "I Married Adventure," by Osa Johnson. My favorite sport is football to watch and if I participate in it, it is swimming. My favorite recreation is reading."

We wish Miss Clark much good luck in the future.

PRESENTING MISS BAKER

We present Miss Baker, seventh grade teacher of Andover Central School:

"My full name is Ruth Millicent Baker, and I was born in Andover and attended Andover High School. My favorite subject was everything except history. I never liked that. My aim while in school was to be a teacher. Andover was much smaller in those days but it has always been a good school. It seems like home to me now.

My favorite movie was "Gone With the Wind," and I like all good books. All songs can be classed among my favorites as they all sound just alike to me. My favorite sport is bowling and my recreation is reading and playing cards."

We wish Miss Baker the best of luck.

Andover Baseball Team a Question

The A. C. S. baseball team is also an "if" team as teams all over are. The main "ifs" are the following:

If Wilbur Lehman can handle the pitching.

If the entire team can hit the ball.

If the outfield consisting of Howland, Ryan and Rookie Gorsuch can cover all ground necessary.

If "Jack" Dean can get back in form, and if Don Lynch will not get hurt behind the plate.

Strength—a good infield and catching ability.

Weakness—batting power and lack of pitchers.

The candidates for the team this year are: Outfield, Gorsuch, Ryan, Howland and Driscoll; catching: D. Lynch and Claude Shellman; pitching: Lehman, Neupert and Clyde Shellman; infield: Gath, J. Lynch, Holt, Dean and Greenan.

CHIT CHAT . . .

"The Whole Town's Talking," turned out even better than the Seniors had hoped, and everyone enjoyed it.

Once again the Seniors would like to thank everyone who helped them in any way to put on their play.

Heavy coats, arctics, rubbers and boots are disappearing gradually. Maybe that will give all of us a couple more inches of empty space in our lockers. Could be we could stand another clean-out before long.

Ah me! Vacation! What shall we do? Somebody think of something drastic, sil vous plait! Notice the French, if you please? That's the spring fever in me!

Here's hoping everyone took a good look at the Senior parade last Friday afternoon. Very impressive.

Don't forget the first baseball game of the season—Andover Central vs. Scio school, April 24. Let's have a big student body out to cheer for the old home team.

Believe it or not, the Economic Geography class is making booklets on the countries of Europe—and don't ask us how they make them stand unchanged for a week, in order to do it.

We've noticed that even the "big boys" aren't too big to join in a good game of marbles now and then. We've seen several good games so far this spring.

New Talent Discovered

The aftermath of the Senior banquet revealed an astonishing discovery! Some of the boys (especially Kenny Gath) took the hint Miss Barrett offered and wiped dishes.

Rollie Shaff condescended enough to wipe approximately two plates and a spoon. The other boys slipped out or else decided to stand and watch the "mass production line." It proved that the dishwashers could outrun the dishwashers. Practice makes perfect in any type of business, eh what?

Fifth Grade Sells Most Tickets For Senior Play

The Senior class wishes to thank the students who sold tickets for the play and helped to make "The Whole Town" a success. Special honors go to Miss Jordan's fifth grade for selling the most tickets and to Phyllis Temple for the student selling the most tickets. DJM

Band Advertises Senior Play

Friday night the band, or at least several pieces of it paraded up and down the streets of Andover, advertising the "Whole Town's Talking." The members of the band boarded the station wagon at the school and then the parade began. Miss Barrett drove the wagon; Margaret Lynch's truck, Mr. Lynch's car and several other cars paraded down the Main street. Marilyn Hardy, Elaine Pope, Arthur Temple, Stanley Rucker and Vic Oakes did the playing. Mr. Quigley made some special arrangements for them to play. Opinions of the parade from the band members amounted to the following:

"It was fun but I wouldn't do it again for a million bucks."

"It was loads of fun, but I nearly got my teeth knocked out going over the bumps."

The idea worked anyhow, for the Seniors had a good crowd. JB
