Whitesville

(Mrs. Ella Millsbaugh, Reporter)

April 29.—The annual May breakfast will be held in the Methodist church dining room Thursday morning from 5:30 until all are served. For 20 years the Philaetha Class has been serving May breakfasts in this church and it has become very popular.

A. C. Davis is doing paper hanging at Arthur Crittenden's.

Mrs. Arvilla Austin was taken to Jones Memorial hospital, Wellsville Monday for treatment.

Clifford Seger, who underwent an operation in Jones hospital Wellsville last week is expected home in a day or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Millsbaugh were in Wellsville on business last Saturday.

Dr. A. M. Greenburg and family left here last week for Camp Lee, Va., where he has been called for army medical service. Dr. Greenburg has been a very successful practicing physician here for the past three years and has made many friends who regret his departure.

While many business places in town have switched to Daylight Saving Time, the Borden Milk plant remains on Standard Time, to accommodate the farming community.

Dr. Irwin Felsen of New York City has moved his family here and taken over the practice of Dr. A. M. Greenburg who left here last week. Dr. Felsen comes here very highly recommended and will doubtless acquire a large medical practice as his predecessors have done. Whitesville needs two doctors and we are glad to welcome Dr. Felsen.

Wise Beyond His Years
Teacher (of geography class): "Johnny, how is the earth divided?"
Johnny: "Nobody will ever know until the war is over."

"Teacher is interested in you, pa."
"How so?"
"Why today, after she had told me seven times to sit down and behave myself, she said she wondered"

Correspondents' Notice

Owing to the train schedules remaining on Standard Time, correspondents mailing copy to the office will have to send same in earlier for publication.

AROUND OUR HOUSE

OUTDOOR PLAY EQUIPMENT

A child's appetite, sleep and temperament, as well as his growth and muscular control, are closely related to the amount of physical exercise he enjoys; and this, in turn, is related to the kind of play equipment he has in his background.

The equipment may not be expensive or elaborate, says the New York State College of Home Economics, which suggests the following pieces of equipment for outdoor play:

A variety of boxes: A dozen or more boxes that range from small cigar or cheese boxes through the soap-box size to large packing boxes cases will give children plenty of things to lug around and will suggest the making of houses, stores, trains, garages and other things.

Two or three hard-wood planks: Several boards or planks from 1 to 10 feet long, 10 inches wide, and 1 or 2 inches thick, will enable children to arrange bridges from one large box to another, to make a tecter by placing one plank over a log, or to make a slide by placing one end of a plank on a box and the other on the ground. For safety, a narrow strip of wood nailed 2 inches from either end serves as a cleat to prevent the board from slipping.

Ladders are Useful

Several short ladders: An ordinary ladder, cut in two, provides a short ladder of four or five rungs and a longer one of six or eight rungs. To make a satisfactory climber, set two 6-foot ladders upright in cement, 6 feet apart, and bridge them with a third ladder braced and bolted securely to the uprights about 5 feet from the ground.

A set of homemade steps: will give pleasure and exercise to a child whose home lacks steps; and an old sawhorse with extra strips added across the sides and ends, will work in with planks and packing boxes to produce many building arrangements and climbing experiences.

For pushing, rolling, tugging, turning on end, and climbing exercises, nail kegs with the heads fastened on, smooth logs from 12 to 18 inches in diameter cut in lengths of from 12 to 36 inches, and hoops from kegs or barrels painted or wrapped with adhesive tape are satisfactory.

Wooden objects should be planed and sanded if necessary, so that there are no sharp corners or splinters. Packing boxes should be carefully inspected for nails before they are put in the play yard. All outdoor equipment lasts longer if it is well finished with deck paint.

For Fun in a Sandbox
A satisfactory sandbox may be made from a packing-box of fair size (4 feet by 4 feet, or larger) which has been cut to a 10-inch depth, lined with roofing paper, painted on the outside and filled with two or three bags of sea sand. A hinged cover is desirable.

Discarded kitchen utensils, such as sifters, pans, egg beaters and spoons, add to the fun, as do cracker cans with rolled edges and pails of sturdy construction such as lard pails, together with some kind of wagon or truck to load them into. A bushel or half-bushel basket or a large jumbo grape basket that has been painted makes an attractive container for storing sand toys.

Care should be taken that any sharp edges or small metal objects are filed smooth or taped.

The United States Department of Agriculture has adopted an expanded food program designed to increase the supplies of pork, dairy products, eggs, poultry and tomatoes for canning.

Economists figure that, during the first world war, 248 minutes of farm labor were required to produce the same amount of wheat as is now produced in 100 minutes.

THE HI HERALD

two horticulturalists among us. V. Barney and Lucille Joyce commenced planting their flower gardens over the week-end.

Kay Howland, Margaret, Ruth and Irene Lynch went to "The Great Lie" at Wellsville, Sunday.

M. Mesler brought her scrapbook up to date.

E. Pope went 'round and 'round Saturday at the rink and to Bolivar Sunday. (guess!)

M. Davis visited Hornell Saturday.

Pat Lynch helped her "Mater" houseclean (all of the houses should be housecleaned pretty soon according to this column).

Mrs. VanOxx just worked during the week-end believing in the policy of "no rest for the weary."

Mary Rose Lauzze of Wellsville paid a visit to her cousin, Rose Yannie.

Betty Halsey went to the fire Sunday with the idea of assisting if necessary probably.

"Ouch" most likely said Regina R. Saturday while in the dentist chair. She also went out to dinner on Sunday. MJM
