Louisa's Letter

My dear Louisa:
I am a heartbroken girl. I have been teaching school in a small town and while there I fell in love with a boy who has not the education or the family that I have. However, I am crazy about him and planned to marry him this coming year. Several days ago I got a letter from him telling me not to come back to Blank this year on his account. That he was undecided what he was going to do and that he might go north to take a special course in something.
Do you think he has ceased to love me or do you suppose he thinks the job he has is not good enough for us to marry on? I do believe he has an inferiority complex. I just don't know what to do.

is not enough and he wishes to prepare himself so that he will be in a position to give you more when he goes get married.
However, it may be that he has "cold feet" and is not sure that he wants to get married right soon. The thought of being responsible for a wife and family may have become too much for him particularly so, since, as you say, he has a rather poor job.
There is very little you can do about it. Why don't you write him and ask him to be perfectly frank with you and explain why he is acting so. If he is tired of his engagement offer to release him, but tell him that if he wants you to wait for him to let you know.
Good luck, LOUISA.

"Anxious"—
Of course you know this young man well enough to understand his motives for acting as he has. He may be as you wish to think that he has an idea that what he has to offer you is not enough and he wishes to prepare himself so that he will be in a position to give you more when he goes get married.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
COUNTY COURT,
COUNTY OF ALLEGANY,
KATHRYN JOYCE JORDAN,
Plaintiff,

My dear Louisa:
A handsome young business man who has been living in our town has become engaged to our daughter.
All of us were under the impression that he was an American until a few days ago. While my daughter was visiting a friend in a large city, her fiance's mother called on her. She was astounded to find that the mother was a foreigner and rarely ever speaks English.
I am very much distressed because I know that these people have such a different view of life and religion from ours that I am afraid the marriage will end in divorce or worse.
What can I do? Mother—N.Y.
Answer:
Of course it is not so much what you will do, but what your daughter wishes to do. A young couple who have such differences in family background and religion, start life under a great handicap and it is almost a miracle when they make a success of marriage.
But it has been done, and if they are both willing to make compromises and thresh things out before they take the final step, they might come thru all right. I hope they will.
LOUISA.
