The spirit and the attitude of these military trained men has much to relate to the general public. Thru these men the morale of the Army will be pictured. Naturally out of a million and a half of young fellows drawn in the lottery of a draft there are inquarrel with routine. In every school there are bad boys who harass their teachers; in every army post there is a guardhouse, on every ship there is a brignot because of any breakdown of morale, but simply because the men are human beings.
