Delicious dessert followed with Mrs. Highby, assisted by Mrs. Callaghan as hostesses. The club is invited to the home of Mrs. Charles Holt for the April meeting. Mrs. Grace Wagner and Mrs. Laura Witter will have charge of the program.

The Conservation Department has announced the addition of the towns of Somers and Yorktown to the list of towns under the fire permit system. Residents of towns under this system are prohibited from starting fires for the purpose of clearing land, burning brush, stumps, dry grass or other debris unless a fire permit is granted by the ranger or fire warden in their district. While we are not in the restricted area, much caution should be taken in starting fires in the open, as much damage is done by fires of this nature getting out of control every spring.

Armory Tax Repeal Would Save County $8,474.08 Annually

The proposed repeal of the State tax on real estate for the support of State armories will save Allegany county taxpayers $8,474.08 annually, according to a release from the Citizen's Public Expenditure Survey. This not only brings a much needed relief to real estate taxpayers, but also is a step toward removing the state from the field of real estate taxation.

Last year 71 million hogs were slaughtered in the U. S. The goal this year is 79 million hogs, to supply the necessary pork and lard needed for this country and its allies.

Dairy Farmers Vote On Revised Market Order This Week

Referendum Limited to This Week to Assure Price-Change April 1. Ballots Sent to 57,000.

Ballots that 57,145 dairy farmers in the six states of the New York milkshed can mark to express in a referendum their opinion of a revised marketing order to replace April 1 the existing New York Federal order governing the farm price of milk produced under the health inspection rules of the metropolitan milk marketing area are being received by dairy farmers this week.

The ballots must be in the mails on their return trip to N. J. Cladakis who has been designated the referendum agent of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, enclosed in a franked, pre-addressed envelope and bearing a postmark of not later than 11:59 p. m., Saturday, March 21. Mr. Cladakis is the administrator of the New York metropolitan marketing area.

The referendum agent has also submitted the identical order in the form of a tentatively approved marketing agreement to 144 handlers who received 443,229,415 pounds of New York area-approved milk from producers in February.

"The time in which dairy farmers can cast their vote for or against the proposed amended order," Mr. Cladakis said, "is limited only because it is desirable, if dairymen agree, to start the operation of the new order April 1 when the price of fluid milk, now $3.11 a hundred-weight, is scheduled to drop to $2.20. If a longer time were allowed, it is unlikely that the 91-cent price drop could be avoided. The amended order, if it goes into effect, will price fluid milk 65 cents higher than the present order would provide April 1, thus lowering the price of milk April 1st 26cents instead of 91 cents.

"While dairy farmers have a little less than a week in which to vote, the major provisions of the revised order have been before producer representatives for nearly three weeks.

"In addition to the ballot and ballot-envelope, each dairy farmer, moreover, receives for his information and use a copy of the complete amended order, a letter of instructions, and a copy of a press release of the United States Department of Agriculture explaining the changes in the order.

The referendum agent's letter of instructions is accompanied by a statement of Commissioner Holton V. Noyes, New York State Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, that "it does not appear to me to be necessary to conduct a separate referendum on a proposed State order which is similar in its terms to a proposed marketing agreement on which a referendum is conducted by the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States."

"I will base my findings," the Commissioner continued, "with respect to a joint and concurrent state order for the New York metropolitan marketing area upon the result of the vote by New York State producers in the referendum conducted by the Secretary."

First Local War Casualty Hits Wellsville

Relatives in Wellsville received word this week from the Navy Department that Seaman Maurice Weller, 30, of Wellsville, attached to the U. S. S. Houston, is missing in action.

Mr. Weller had been a member of the Navy for 12 years. The U. S. S. Houston was reported lost on February 28 in the naval battle with the Japs around Java.

Ask Bus Franchises

The first steps to solve the local transportation problem arising from the war restrictions were taken Monday night when the Wellsville Town Board voted to grant franchises to George B. Harris and Fred Short to use the streets, highways and public places of the town of Wellsville for the operation of a bus line.

Messrs. Harris and Short have filed petitions in the surrounding towns for similar franchises with the prospect of starting bus routes to transport men working in Wellsville industries to and from work.

Harold W. Leijous of Belmont is also seeking franchises to operate a bus route from Belmont to Wellsville.
