SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON DISCIPLESHIP

International Sunday School Lesson for April 26, 1942

Golden Text: "Whoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple."—Luke 14:27

Lesson Text: Luke 13:22-35.

While Jesus and his disciples were enroute to Jerusalem, they met a man who asked him, "Lord, are there few that be saved?" This was a superfluous question, a relatively unimportant query. What is important is whether or not your own soul will be saved. That Jesus considered the question in this light is shown by the fact that he ignored the question and proceeded to teach him, and the crowd gathered there, a much-needed lesson.

While a good many people waste a lot of energy and thought in delving into philosophical and theoretical questions that no human being can answer, they would do far more for themselves and for the Kingdom of God if they would strive, agonize and strain every nerve to enter the Kingdom of God. They should quietly and earnestly ask themselves: "Am I ready for the Kingdom of God to come? If Jesus should come today, would I be ready to receive him?"

The nearest Jesus came to answering the question of the man is in Matthew 7:13-14, where he speaks of the two ways—a strait gate and a narrow way that lead to life, but few people find it, and a wide gate and a broad way that lead to destruction, and many people travel it. He thus declares that the Christian pathway is narrow. It costs to be a Christian. There are some things that a Christian must deprive himself of in order to travel the narrow way.

"It costs something to be a disciple of Jesus. Why is it that we have so many church members who are unenlisted? who are indifferent? who seem to care little whether the church fails or succeeds? Why? They have not counted the cost. Charles Forbes Taylor has a sermon on 'What Salvation Costs,' in which he says that it cost God all he had to give it. It cost Christ all he had to bring it. It costs the Christians all he has to live it. It costs the sinner his soul to reject it. 'It does not take much of a man to be a Christian; but it takes all there is of him.'—Selected.

Those who refuse to enter this narrow door of the Christian life cannot continue to do so indefinitely. The time will come, says Jesus, when the door will be shut to them. He told his Jewish listeners that it would be that way with many of them, that one day they would want to enter but would find that it was too late. Some would come claiming that they knew him, that they had eaten and drunk in his presence, but he would be forced to declare, "I know ye not whence ye are." How well do we know Jesus? One who is saved must be a true disciple of Christ by knowing him personally.

Those who know him and are known of him have eternal life and will "sit down with him in his kingdom." Those who trust in formalism, ritualism, or ceremony for salvation, or those who reject him entirely, will spend eternity in hell, described by Jesus himself as "the place of torment." To every person, at one time or another, there comes the question, asked by Pilate: "What shall I do then with Jesus who is called Christ?" (Matt. 27:22) We can accept him—"Whosoever believeth on Him"—and receive "everlasting life." If we do not accept him, we are condemned. "He that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed on the name of the only begotten Son of God." (John 3:17b.)

One of the most pathetic scenes pictured in the Bible is that of Jesus as he looked out, with deepest compassion, on the city of Jerusalem. He loved this holy city of the Jews, but he knew she would reject him and because of her rejection, must suffer inevitable punishment. While a true disciple accepts Jesus for himself, he is also greatly concerned about those who are not Christians. Real Christians are, real missionaries wherever they are, whether at home or abroad.

"To be a disciple of Christ is to admire him so sincerely and so fervently that the whole life goes out to him in an aspiration to be like him."—C. E. Jefferson.
