FOOD TO KEEP YOU FIT

GETTING ALONG WITH LESS SUGAR

Even growing boys and girls, hard-working farmers, and factory and office workers, can get along with less sugar than they are used to eating, says the New York State College of Home Economics.

Several different ways to cut down on sugar can be used: Eat more energy-giving foods, such as fruits, nuts, cheese, eggs and bread; reduce the amount of sugar in some favorite dishes; and use some honey, sirups, and molasses in place of sugar for sweetening foods.

Probably most American home-makers will prefer to save their sugar rations for use in "special occasion" desserts and, the rest of the time to use foods that do not require added sweetening and of simple desserts made with honey, maple sirup, corn sirup or molasses. For centuries, in dozens of different countries, crackers and cheese and fresh fruits have been favorite end-of-the-meal foods of rich and poor alike.

Baked products in which substitutions are made should be baked at a lower temperature than the recipe calls for. Replace half of the sugar by a substitute. The following amounts of sirups and honeys, as a substitute for sugar, have been found satisfactory:

HONEY OR MOLASSES: Use the same volume as for sugar but reduce the liquid in the recipe one-

Turning the Tables "Please, ma'am, your dog has killed three of father's prize fowls," said the small boy.

"Oh, I'm quite sure my Fido would never do such a thing," said the old lady.

"But father saw one of the chickens in his mouth," said the boy.

"Purely circumstantial evidence," she snapped, and the boy departed.

Some time later he returned. "Please, ma'am, father sent me to tell you that circumstantial evidence might point to his having shot your dog, but he reckons you'll find he died of lead poisoning."

Louisa's Letter

I have several letters which were written to me before Christmas and in them were stamped envelopes. Some of the problems in these letters have been changed by now and it would be foolish for me to try to advise the writers without knowing a little more about present circumstances.

To Broken-Hearted—Ala.

I do not know whether you are still worried about the other girl and your boy friend or not. It may be that you are interested in someone else by now.

However, I think that most of us become too possessive when we fall in love. We are jealous if the object of our affections seems to enjoy being in the company of anyone else.

To L. J. L.—Penn.

I am so sorry that you are just getting an answer to your letter.

HOW, WHAT AND WHY?

Special to the Andover News

The Andover News has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home.

Storage Egg Quality

Mrs. W. B. S. asks: "Are storage eggs inferior to fresh?" Prof. H. E. Botsford of the poultry department replies: "In New York State any egg may be deemed fresh which meets the quality of Grade A or higher, providing it is not more than 30 days old."

"Freshness appears to be associated with the way eggs are handled and kept after they are laid. Many eggs, of fine quality when placed in storage, are upon removal superior to other eggs which may be relatively new-laid."

"Because many eggs are stored during spring and early summer when conditions for new-laid eggs are not particularly favorable to maintaining quality, these eggs may lose much of their original quality before going into storage."

"Eggs that have been in storage should be eaten quickly after removal, for they lose quality faster than do new laid eggs of similar quality that have not been in storage. Any difference between storage eggs and new laid or fresh eggs are likely to be in condition of albumen or yolk and not nutritive differences."

Paint Basement Walls

W. H. S. asks: "What is a good preparation to use on basement walls other than ordinary white-wash?"

Prof. B. B. Robb of the agricultural engineering department answers: "Concrete walls can be painted with a cement paint to which color pigments have been added."

Bare Cupboard

Boarding House Landlady: "There is a mouse in the pantry. How can I get rid of it?"

Hungry Boarder: "Shut the door and let it starve."
