Bringing Up Father

"Of course you entertained during the social season?"

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox, "mother and the girls didn't think much of me as an entertainer, but I overheard several visitors say that I was one of the most amusing people that ever broke in."

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa:

I have been going with a boy for several months but I am not sure I love him. In fact, I think I would go back to another boy I was engaged to before I started with this one. We had a silly quarrel but we are both sorry about it now.

But I hate to hurt this other boy. I don't know what he will do and I am afraid he might hurt himself if I break up with him. He has threatened to do so.

What must I do? L.D.—Vt.

Answer:

If you are sure you love the first boy, there is only one thing for you to do, and that is to tell No. 2 exactly how you feel and that you would be doing him a great deal more harm by marrying him when you cared for someone else than you would by breaking up with him. A wife who doesn't love her husband with all of her heart is no satisfaction to herself or to him. Neither of them will be happy. And if No. 2 is so emotionally weak that he threatens injury to himself if you break up with him you will be well rid of him. Imagine a husband who brought up suicide every time he was thwarted!

But are you sure you love either one of them enough to marry him? The mere fact that you dilly-dally between the two makes me wonder. There are so many ups and downs in marriage that the only thing that makes it beautiful is the feeling that life is nothing without this one person. If you feel that way, the fact that he may have to go to the army will not influence your decision at all. LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

What would be the correct words to say when someone tells you they missed you at Sunday School? Would "Thank you" be the correct reply? T.Y.—Ala.

Answer:

"Thank you" is all right and you might add that you missed being there, that you always enjoyed the lesson and seeing everybody, etc. LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am a farmer, 29 years old. My parents are both dead and I am staying on the home place. I am a good manager.

I have had a good housekeeper for three years. She is a very good cook and also a good manager. She is fond of outdoor work and horses too. She tells me she loves me and cannot get along without me but I have asked her several times to marry me and the answer she gives me is not now but to keep on asking her. She is very pretty—about 28 and single.

If she loves me as she says, I don't see any reason why she should not marry me. Will you advise me what to do? WORRIED—Md.

Answer:

I can't see any reason for her

Angelica Man Found Dead

John Crawford, a farmer of Oramel, was found drowned in a pool of water in Angelica Creek Saturday morning near the Allegany county home where he had been an inmate since March, this year. His hat was found on an overhanging limb indicating his whereabouts.

Mr. Crawford had been in ill health and despondent for some time. He was 60 years old and had no immediate survivors.

Bridegroom: "What's the matter, dearest. You seem flustered."

Bride: "Oh, it's nothing. This is the first time I have ever got married. I'll do better next time."

refusal either, if she really loves you. She is certainly old enough and it would be a much better arrangement for you both than the present set-up. You did not say whether anyone else lived in the house with you or not. If not, your housekeeper is likely to be talked about no matter how well she conducts herself.

Why don't you tell her that you are tired of her stalling and that if she doesn't marry you, you will start looking around for a wife, as you are not getting any younger.
