SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
CAIN AND ABEL

International Sunday School Lesson for July 19, 1942.

Golden Text: "By faith, Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, through which he had witness borne to him that he was righteous." — Hebrews 11:4.

Lesson Text: Genesis 4: 1-15.

Our studies in Genesis continue to tell us about the beginning of things. The story of creation, the beginning of sin, and, now, the first murder in the world's history.

Cain and Abel were the sons of the first man and woman, according to some authorities twins, the latter being a shepherd. Of their younger days, the environments in which they were reared, and such things, we are given little in detail. The early record is concise and brief with only a bare outline of the great tragedy given us in these few verses.

The religious ideas held by these two brothers can only be surmised. They had some idea of God and it was over the different receptions given their respective offerings that the seeds of anger were sown in Cain's heart. We are told that Cain "brought of the fruits of the ground an offering," which was rejected, while Abel "also brought of the fat thereof," which was accepted.

The inference drawn by many commentators is that an animal offering was more acceptable to God than a vegetable offering, but this can only be shown by religious developments subsequent in point of time and there is nothing in the scriptural record prior to the record of these offerings to indicate what kind of sacrifice or gift God desired of his servants.

As it seems to us, the probability is that Cain's gift was rejected because he had not been unselfish but had offered as a sacrifice to God products of the field that were imperfect and undesirable. This seems to be a reasonable assumption considering the fact that we are told that Abel brought the "firstlings of his flock and the fat thereof" — which meant that he had selected generously and sincerely the best that he had as an offering to God.

Men and women today in their daily lives are often called upon to determine what offering they will present to their Creator. God does not demand of people things that are impossible or gifts beyond their capabilities. All that is required is that the service be sincere and represent the best efforts of the giver. According to our viewpoint, if Cain's offering has been the best he had, it would have been acceptable to God.

Having seen his brother Abel's gift accepted and his own refused, Cain gave the world the initial illustration of envy and jealousy leading to terrible results. "If thou doest well, shall thou not be accepted?" God spoke to him but in his inflamed frame of mind, Cain recognized no reason and allowed the passion of anger to consume his judgment. He plotted to ensnare his brother. We are told that he talked to Abel and some versions include a positive statement that he invited Abel to his field, where his anger culminated in the cruel killing of his younger brother. Questioned about his crime, he lied and denied responsibility. Serious and bloody are consequences of an envious spirit.

The world of men has paid heavily in the centuries that have rolled by for hate. Individuals allow their animosities to goad them to desperation and then, oftentimes, they resort to physical violence, forgetful of the sacredness of human life. Nations allow illwill and jealousy to culminate in bloody wars, seemingly believing that at the dictates of political authority, the eternal commandment of God against killing can be set aside with impunity. Even Christians, in the face of war, abdicate all claims to mercy and forgiveness and join in the process of inciting hatred and enmity against their opponents.

America, more than any other country, needs to reflect upon the lesson we are discussing. The homicidal rate in the United States leads the world and the tendency very often is for our people to take vengeance or punishment into their own hands. This decision is usually made while the perpetrator is under the stress of great anger. Our courts are failing to convict and punish murderers sufficiently to deter men and women from killing. Our churches and Sunday Schools fail to reach effectively many people who commit such crimes. The record of homicides is one that is disgraceful to America.

He was a member of the Baptist church of Andover and the County Schoolmasters Club. Services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the Baptist church, the Rev. Tebo officiating, with interment at the Hartsville Hill cemetery.

State Police Will Thoroughly Enforce 40-Mile Speed Limit

Albany, July 22.—The speed limit on New York State roads means just that—40 miles per hour.

That is made plain in an order issued to all commanding officers of the State Police by Superintendent John A. Warner and made today by the War Transportation Committee which has emphasized its transportation program, the wasteful high-speed driving.

Referring to a letter from error Lehman which requires enforcement of the literal application of its mandate, strict Warner said that "the strictest vigilance be used in absolutely enforcing the speed limit without tolerance."

The State Police head sergeant said that "if any motor vehicle exceeds the limit by so much as one hour over the prescribed limit of a quarter of a mile, a citation should be issued and a fine made."

He added: "You are hereby directed to tell all members of your units to enforce this 40 mile speed limit with redoubled vigilance, and to instruct them to report and apply this law. You are hereby directed to take necessary steps to effectuate enforcement of the law."

"A copy of this order is being placed in the hands of each member of your command."

The 40 mile speed limit came effective on April 22 and was enforced by Major Warner, who made 1,364 arrests during the month of May, and 1,645 during the same offense in June.

Appreciation

I wish to thank the Andover men for their generous response to my call last week.
