"Pat" Perrone Now In San Diego, Calif.

2207 Plum Street, San Diego, Calif., July 7, 1942

Dear Claire:

Thanks a million for changing my address. Now please change it again. I hope this is a bit more permanent. Yes it is good to be a working man again. What I would really like to have done is to join the boys in the services. I figure making bombers is the next best thing.

My work is in the engineering department as a Jr. Stress Analyst. All I have done so far is routine computations. By the way I go to class every morning for a couple of hours. They are trying to teach me something about airplane structures. Plenty deep I'd say. People do not realize how complicated aviation is. There is plenty of work and headaches from the thinking up of a new plane and putting it into production. All I lacked for my Masters was my thesis. But we must all pitch in and win this war first.

Brother Jim joined the Navy. PAT PERRONE

Annual Meeting Of G. L. F. Held In Andover

John Elster and William Joyce were elected local committeemen for the next three years at the annual meeting of local G. L. F. patrons, held at the Andover Grange hall last Thursday evening.

Complimenting local farmers on the way they have answered the Government's call for "food to win the war and write the peace," A. J. Masterman, G.L.F. district manager said that Northeast farmers are producing more milk, eggs, meat and food crops than ever before.

He cited a survey showing that the average G.L.F. patron is producing on his farm enough food to supply the needs of 70 people. "This means," Mr. Masterman said, "that the 140,000 G.L.F. patrons are producing enough food for more than 9,800,000 people—more people than live in New York City, Washington, D. C., Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse, Schenectady, Rochester and Andover combined."

To supply farmers with essential supplies for food production, Mr. Masterman said, the co-operative during the past year had bought ahead, carried bigger stocks and built more facilities. Donald DeRemer, who has managed Farmers' Feed Supply and who is the local agent-buyer, reported an increased volume of business by local patrons. Mr. DeRemer is about to go into naval service and everyone wished him the best of luck in this new venture.

Mr. Masterman also traced the history of the G.L.F. from its beginning in 1920 as a dairy feed mixing service until today when it is serving some 140,000 farmer-patrons with their needs from feed, seed and fertilizer to such items as cake flour, milled from their own wheat and canned goods from their own fruits and vegetables.

Other features of the meeting were movies, piano selections and refreshments.

Other members of the local patron's committee are: Everett Clark, who was chosen committee chairman for the next year, William Pease, Charles Robinson and Howard Green.

WANDERING WITH WILLIE

Dearest Sergeant Cabe:

We read your letter of last week with the deepest interest and profound surprise to hear that you are still yourself. The only news that we have really received lately is that the Army is getting so careless about handing out Sergeant stripes.

Our ghost writer was not drafted, Cabe. He is still about as usual but nowadays everybody seems so busy, talking about the war, polishing and checking our tires, trying to drink the beer that keeps piling up since you were drafted and going up on the observation post to see if we can locate a plane that is wandering about the blue. Oh yes, and then we do work in the meantime.

The Government is giving Andover all the breaks possible in an endeavor to keep it from being a one-horse town. They took the gas away from practically all the rest of the world and still lets Old Allegany burn the midnight joy-jug, but we don't know for how long this will be. The day before the 22nd we were still doubtful as to whether we would be allowed gas or not so we filled our cigarette lighter to overflowing.

Your picture of the burg in the horse-and-buggy era does hold a lot of possibilities, Cabe. Just think (if possible) what a mess it will be now that the government has decided not to allow tires for brew trucks and pop trucks, when all the dry farmers from the hills come into town and will have to go down to the depot to wait for the freight to roll in with a load of concentrated hops.

The village is about the same Sarge, as when you left it. The only difference we see is that there seems to be more unescorted ladies wandering around than when you were here (but you wouldn't be interested, an old married man like yourself). And with the shortage of silk the Andover gals are going more and more for ankle socks. The silk stockings on the market now are more or less of the Nipponese type—One Yank and they run like h—.

Oh yes, we forgot to ask you what kind of a guard-house do they have where you are (undoubtedly you have tried them all in every camp you have been in) and how do they manage to keep you fed?

There are so many things we would like to ask you but don't know if you could answer them so will forget them until a later date. After that letter you sent last week we want your brain to flatten out a bit or it might get muscle-bound from trying to pierce our tender hide.

Well Cabe, drop in again some time when you have lots of time in the guardhouse or when you are not sleeping. We are always glad to hear from our "only friend." We really were lonesome.

ONE of the saddest garden incidents resulting from the flood was down on Second street where S. George S. had one Victory Garden, and we mean Victory Garden. He started early this year as soon as the snow was off the ground to plan and plant, plow and prod, and he was really proud of the products of his progressiveness. Well along came the high water as high water comes and not knowing that it was S. George's garden went smack-dab right thru the waving corn and beans. Saturday afternoon when the water lowered, S. G. S. went down that way and rode right by but looked the other way as the sight was too much for him. The last we heard was that he was going down and plant a flag in the middle of it—at half mast.

Since quitting the garden business, George, we understand, has been in the exterior decorating business as the "Blue Menace" proves as he comes "purring" down our streets.

Turks Will Resist Aggression, Says Andover Girl

The Turks will fight any aggressor, is the opinion of Miss Eleanor DeRemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. DeRemer of Andover, recently returned from Turkey after six years as an instructor in mathematics in the American Collegiate Institute at Izmir, Smyrna.

Miss DeRemer spoke before the regular weekly meeting of the Wellsville Rotary Club Tuesday noon. Her topic was "Turkey for the Turks."

Unable to make reservations on the Atlantic Clipper, Miss DeRemer chose to make the hazardous trip home by boat. While she admits that they had several anxious moments, the freighter on which she was a passenger landed safely some place on the Atlantic seaboard after crossing from the West African port. She reached New York Sunday, July 12. She made the trip from Izmir to Cairo by train and automobile and flew from Cairo to Lagos, Nigeria.

Miss DeRemer explained the background of the cleaning out of undesirable minorities in Turkey by the exchange of populations following the first World War and told of the rising personal pride which has been developed in calling themselves Turks.

"The Turks take a great deal of pride in their army and everything they have," said Miss DeRemer and expressed the opinion that they will put up strong resistance against any aggressor which attempts to overrun them."—Wellsville Reporter.
