Harvest Home Very Enjoyable Event

The annual 67th Harvest Home held on the Presbyterian church grounds last Thursday was very well attended, even the weather man did his bit to make the day a success. There were 318 dinner tickets sold.

The feature of the day was a very instructive and interesting description of the geographic structure of Turkey, given by Miss Eleanor DeRemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John DeRemer. Miss DeRemer has been a mathematics instructor in Turkey for the past six years and has acquired a first hand knowledge of the country and its people, which she described in a very pleasing and comprehensive manner.

Another interesting feature was disclosed in the attendance of the various guests. Mrs. Floyd Richardson has attended each of the 67 annual dinners. William F. Snyder, William Pease and Henry Horan have missed but one annual dinner. Michael Dougherty has missed only three and Mrs. Lillian Sutton was in attendance at the first Harvest Home dinner.

WANDERING WITH WILLIE

This week we received another little love note from "our only friend" Fran Cable. "Sarge" evidently feels terrible. The letter follows:

Sunday, 1942
Greetings, Willie:

Where in (censored) do you get that stuff, "Dearest Sarg," that you wrote in your last letter? I might be your "only friend," but I haven't gotten to the stage where I think of you in connection with moonlight in a garden.

Did you really think that anybody could stoop so low as to be romantic about you? To me, you are just a refugee from an Egyptian tomb. Yes, sir—see Willie, you remind me of a mummy minus his first aid bandages. So can the Romeo and Juliet stuff.

Thanks Willie for telling me to wait a spell to let my brain flatten out, but if I were you (God forbid) I'd stick to a subject I understood. A hog knows more about a hymn book than you do about a brain. You come from the species commonly called a "solid citizen" (from the neck up.)

You seemed quite interested in the local "Hotel de Luxe" known in our life as the guard house. Although as yet my name hasn't appeared on the register I do know a bit about it and can't recommend it as one of the places "you simply must visit on your tour." It is equipped with the usual bars outside the window (to keep all unwelcome guests out) and the beds are comfortable, I am told as they are built of soft pine. The service is excellent. To prevent a guest from being robbed, the management always has a guard accompany him. That is all I can say on that subject, Willie, but I want you to know your interest in my welfare is touching.

Willie, you've had a lot of fun with G. Sackett and his Victory Garden in the flood. Did it ever occur to you that that little episode might be sabotage and a possible case for the FBI? You see, Willie, a Victory Garden means food and food is as important as guns in winning this war. Think (impossible) what the consequences would be if all the thousands of Victory Gardens were destroyed as brother George's was.

You see, a spy will stoop to anything to help his country. It is very possible that one did enter said Sackett garden one dark night and planted onions next to his potatoes. As a result, one day in July, the onions reached their growth and the potatoes started to cry their eyes out, thereby flooding the valley and causing untold damage. Anyhow, it's food for thought. Too bad there isn't a parade Labor Day. George could enter his garden as a Victory "float."

In your epistle of the 6th I was pleased to note your mention of a "pot for pennies." It's a good idea as there are some articles hard to get outside of the States. Of course we get smokes cheaper than you can but stuff like matches, tooth brushes, socks, candy and above all handkerchiefs are just the ticket and hard to get. I think that the natives here never heard of a "hankie" before we arrived. They resort to the time-tested method of placing a thumb against the nose (something similar to a salute in the States).

Well, you answer to a psychiatrist's prayer, I think this will do for the present and don't worry yourself about the draft. We may go all out for victory but the only uniform you will wear has long sleeves that tie in the back. An upholstered wall to bat your head against is thrown in free.

As never,
F. E. C.

"Darling":
Forgive us for calling your "Dearest Sarge" in our last letter (and also for the "Darling" in this one) but we know that if we started the letters the way we wanted to the post office department would never let them go thru the mails.

You see, Cabe, we like you and you can't help yourself. Funny, but that's the way life is.

It does make us mad, tho, boiling mad, that you call us so many terrific names, but 30 days in the "brig on land" must pass slow for one of your activity. Don't try to tell us Cabe that you have never been in that guard house that you so aptly described. One who had never been in could not have such a vivid picture pasted in his mind (you notice, honey pie, we said "pasted"). But to get back to army life and its workings, Sarge, we never tried to knock you in any way, but just let you take care of the Army end of our government and we are taking care of the States while you are gone. You got your raise in pay, didn't you? But did we ever get even one word of thanks from you? No, you probably thanked those Senators and some of the other boys. But that's O. K. too—sunshine.

We even let the Red Cross squeeze a pint of blood out of us to send over to you fellows (incidentally it was exactly like your's, tested 86 proof.

You and "Flash" Gath must have about the same superior officers (and that's not saying much for an officer superior to you little hitchhikers.) Every time they give you the devil, or when you are serving time in the jug you immediately holler for the guard to bring you a pencil and paper and take your meanness out on us. You fellows could cut out some nice paper dolls while you're in there but the guards probably won't let you have any shears.

And then, the first thing you know Sackett will be mad at us too. We promised him faithfully that we would never mention his Victory Garden again and here you both tell folks about it—and we will get the blame.

So, the next time either of you boys are bothered with boils, termites, guards, or any of the little things that make you feel like giving the world the works, don't, year for heaven's sake don't, jump all over "your only friend."

Some day, perhaps in the distant future, there will be some poor lonesome misguided (and more or less intelligent soul) who will like us just a teeny-weeny bit, you army-toughened, hard-hearted waifs of Uncle Samuel, and then perhaps you will be sorry for all the untruths you have scattered so freely about us. We just long to see that day come—only having two friends in the world, "Flash" and you . . . "darling" Sargeant Cabe.

We hope that someone will start that "pot" idea, Cabe, in the near future before you will have to begin that old American salute that you mentioned.

Drop in and see us again some time.

Kind Lady—"What are you crying for, little man? What's your name? Where do you live?"

Small Boy—"That's what's the matter. I don't know my name or where I live. We moved yesterday and mother was married again today."
