WANDERING WITH WILLIE

WE were very fortunate Tuesday evening to be one of the invited guests at the second annual 1942 banquet of the bus drivers of this burg. It was a touching affair all around with all reporting a splendid time. The main course at the dinner, which was prepared by Ralph Shaff, cook de luxe, was "woods bossy", the rest of the menu being all camp style—and doggone good.
 During the song fest, which was held early in the evening (to let other folks sleep) Ralph led the singing with "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," which was followed by several other war songs, "Chuck" Holt and George Sackett tenor and soprano respectively being heard on the program. Chuck later sang "Asleep in the Deep," and Hart Goodridge led in several numbers.
 The officer on duty, "Ed" Kilbane, dropped in several times during the evening to see that peace-loving citizens of Andover were not disturbed.
 Light refreshments were served and cards enjoyed until a late hour. "Bollie" Scott, acting chairman of the fray, voiced his opinion that he would personally co-operate with the rest of the drivers in every way so that they might hold their third annual 1942 banquet before December 31st at midnight.
 QUOTING "Jim" Mul regarding the deer season just past: "Anyone who says deer are innocent little things are crazy. They know more than any other doggone beast afoot.—Period.
 Jim incidentally, was among the hunters who were not on the list of lucky ones in bagging a buck. We are with Jim on his list.
 DID you ever happen to receive a "blackout letter"? Well, one arrived this week from one of the boys out in Sunny California. It is too good to keep so we pass it along:
 Dear ——— (?)
 Lights out! Here's a black-out letter from California to tell you we're not scared; the sun is still shining, the climate wonderful "as usual." There is much black-out "funny business" tho. Sales of white lipstick doubled after a fellow missed his girl's lips and kissed a horse. Men with "black-out alibis" still try to explain perfume and lady dust on their shoulders, but don't get the "all-clear" signal. Glow worms are giving trouble during blackouts, but after all, "when you gotta glow, you gotta glow." White hydrants are installed for the poodles. Thoughtful, isn't it? The Japs, swimming this way, changed into uniforms of brassieres and red diapers after our Chamber of Commerce phoned General Togo that it was no-go and that we would kick the pants off any Nips arriving at our beaches.
 So don't worry. We'll be here doing business as usual, long after Japan's rising sun has been set. So come out and see us sometime.
 Sincerely ——— (?)
 ONE break this year for folks up in Chicken Hollow is that all their city kinfolks can't drive out and eat up everything in the smoke-house, says a Hollower.
 WITH everybody in the swing on the rationing this week we thought that the following (Here's to you, "Flash", from the Sept. 12 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, and not original with Willie) cute little bit headed "Remarks":
 There's much less rubber for you and me,
 And much less gas to spill out,
 And much less sugar to sweeten tea
 But many more forms to fill out;
 Forms that ask for your last name

first,
 Forms that beg for your names reversed,
 Forms with pages of printed dope
 You couldn't read with a microscope
 Forms to plead for defense priorities,
 Forms to mail to the wrong authorities,
 Green forms, yellow forms, sky-blue-pink forms,
 please print plainly and please use ink forms,
 Single forms, double forms, triplicate forms,
 Half of them probably out-of-date forms—
 Forms!
 There's much less traffic to make us wroth,
 And much less time to take out,
 And much less wool for the haggard moth—
 But many more blanks to make out;
 Blanks with spaces you just put X in,
 Blanks with your age, height, weight and sex in,
 Blanks to swear to and blanks to swear at,
 With dotted lines that you dasent tea at,
 Blanks with blocks that you mustn't write in Spacious enough to fly a kite in,
 And a slot the size of a pygmy flea
 For a resume of your history!
 Gas blanks, draft blanks, tax blanks,
 bank blanks,
 And just plain blankety-blank-blank-blank blanks—
 Blanks!
