How Waste Paper goes to war

The waste paper you collect, bundle and turn in is rapidly reprocessed into war paper for our fighters. They use it in over 700,000 ways. They must have it. So never burn or throw away waste paper—turn it all in—now! Here's how it's used:

PAPER-WRAPPED SUPPLIES by the ton are stored here in a gigantic pantry of the U.S. Naval Base in Londonderry, Ireland.

PAPER BLOOD PLASMA CONTAINERS, transported by these Papuan natives, are carrying the stuff of life itself to troops in the South Pacific.

PAPER RATION "R" CONTAINERS are doubly important to these jungle fighters who depend on strength and vitality for their lives
