Ray Dickens, 60, of Andover and Leon Bigelow, 66, Friendship, were both instantly killed Monday morning when Erie train No. 7 struck their light coupe at the State street crossing in Wells-

Railroad Crossing

* Local Man Killed

On Wellsville

Both men were employed by the L. C. Whitford Company as carpenters and were working on la porch at a home on Broad street. It is believed that the | men needed additional material lor tools and were going for them when their car was struck.

The impact threw the car over near the McEwen Brothers plant and almost demolished it. Both men were thrown from the mathe and are believed to have died instantly.

Mr. Dickens was born May 14. 1 1883 in Sunderlinville, Pa., the son of David and Sarah Strait Dickens. He was married June 1 21, 1913 to Miss Pearl A. Ackerman, who survives together with three daughters, Mrs. Roland H. Perkins, Mrs. Kenneth M. Clark land Mrs. Donald M. Meissner, alı of Wellsville. Two brothers, Ar-Charles Dickens, Belmont; a sister, Mrs. Clara Winchell, Portville and a grandson, James Perkins, also survive. He was a member of the Will-From Boys in Service ing Volunteer Hose company and the Carpenters Union.
