THEY MADE AMERICA GREAT —they will keep America strong

With the growth of your railroads came the great development of America. Stretching ever farther into vast new regions, thousands of miles of gleaming track carried America with them to build a Nation where once there was only wilderness.

And your railroads are still essential to the development of our country, making it strong in war as in peace. Over the tracks now carrying the load for Victory, will again roll the products of peace to keep America the world's greatest Nation.

By supplying busy factories with raw materials and transporting the finished productscarrying the products of agriculture to town and city—Erie and other railroads are providing an essential link in our great system of production and distribution, without which our whole way of life, the strength of America, would inevitably crumble.
