Question 3. Is there any way the life of cut flowers may be prolonged? ANSWER. The recent report made by investigators at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station shows that the life of many cut flowers may be considerably prolonged by replacing the air in the tissues by water. This was accomplished by placing flowers under water in a vacuum chamber. The vacuum pumps are started and the air bubbles out of the flowers. When the chamber is opened to the air, water rushes in to take the place of the displaced air. Some flowers treated in this manner last several times as long as the untreated flowers. — Dr. King.
