This week we find that Mrs. Marie McFadden has displayed on her bulletin board some very attractive booklets on Journalism made by the High School English students. In the center of the bulletin board is placed Andover Central School received showing the school to be a member of the "Quill and Scroll, an International Society for High Honorary School Journalists. We received the membership by submitting a copy of the Hi Herald for examination and being accepted by the society. On the cover of George the booklet made by Phillipson is a horn of plenty = with little booklets coming out, each of which is a different kind of news article found in a newspaper. The cover of Jerry Lynch's with an i booklet is designed original cartoon and shows a secretary who is looking through i very messy files, telling her boss that "She always gets such a thrill, when she finds somthing she is looking for." A newspaper design's the cover of John Bridge's hooklet with the word Journalism; written across it. Jo Ann Theetge and Helen Yannie featured men deeply interested in a news! article on their covers. Helen's features a main with a newspaper and Jo Ann's a man with a book on journalism. Miss Ruth Shutt booklet shows a world throwing it's light on a bottle of ink, pen and book.

Within the booklets are hints stories, leads for writing news and headlines and an example of each different of news kind article found in a newspaper, booklets are typewritten and contain an index as well as clippings from newspapers.

The pupils enjoyed received booklets knowledge about great deal of articles newspaper and news while doing so.
