"Ls Your Child Immune?" "Diptheria? Smallpox? We do not have to worry about them any Free al circumsta ces vom

True, we don't have to worry about them, IF—a real big if—we take the necessary steps to protect our children against them. chief reason why these disease are pretty well controlled in this country is that we've had the ical science can cher means of protection for many

Just because we rarely hear of cases, does not mean we can forget about them. The simple rountine of protection must go on. Within the first year of his life, your child and every child should be immunized against diptheria. whooping cough, tetanus, _and polio, and vaccinated against smallpox. Some doctors will mix the diptheria, whocping cough, and tetanus shots; others give the tetans toxoid separately. For all except smallpox, three too much about your child's reactions to the injections. He may be fretful and even a little feverish He's bound to have a sore arm. His appetite may fall off for a day of so. But doctors say he'll have very little, if any, memory of
