European Schools by Joyce Day

Are European schools better than ours? Most Americans are unable to answer this question be cause of an ignorance of European schools Let's take a look at the schools which are currently being built in Europe. Most schools do not require large areas because small surfaced playcourts are used instead large playfields. Stadiums and bleachers are unheard of.

The European school grounds are much more beautiful than are most American school grounds. Pupils accept responsibility for taking care of the flowers and even come back during vacation to maintain the gardens under the supervision of the resident care-

These are some of the ways in A.C.S. To Celebrate which modern European schools differ from American schools. Basically the educational program is much the same, and the differences lie mostly in the items of less importance.

Teens Of Our Times by Lois Reil

In a few weeks summer will be here and school will be out. You may think to yourself, "I'll just lie around all summer doing nothing". But lazy days can be boring and time wasting. There's so much to do, and so much you want to do, so why not start right away You might try briefing up on the subjects you'll be taking when you go back to school or even later on in the world. Study shorthand or typing because they always come in handy. If you like to read, read. Learn to cook something different. It might make you famous. If you like to sew,
