of the building were open with displays of work of students. addition. demonstrations were given in both sections of the third grade, English, Music and Homemaking Departments. Mrs. Dearman's third grade class took part in an arithmetic demonstration. The class answered problemsgiven by Mrs. Dearman from a group of cards each student had on his deck by placing them on a colored clip broad. They also played a game of "Ten Little Indians" showing addition and subtraction from 1-10. Mrs. Streeter conducted a Weekly Reader lesson in her section. The children read and answered questions from the Readers. A similar lesson is given each week in all the elementary grades.

The seventh graders took part in an English lesson conducted by Mrs. Sutton. In the Music Department, Gerald McClure chose a group of fifth and sixth grade girls to demonstrate how children - are taught to sing and read music, the procedures and objectives of music in the elementary school This was given in two parts; part one showed singing, rhythmic expression, creating and listening, andpart two contained reading of syllables, key, time, signatures, rhythm and identification of

The Homemaking Department was well attended by the guests. Mrs. Gongol of the Hornell Singer Sewing Machine Company demonstrated the Slant-o-matic sewing machine showing how to operate the machine, making butterholes, and sewing on but tons. They also served cookies and punch following the demonstration. Mrs. Josephine Lewis Homemaking teacher.
