What Is Christmas? by Judie Baker

Christmas is music—the clear call of church bells and carols sung by young voices. Christmas is a brilliance of lights-lights of trees, candles, hearth-fires and warm friendly lights of houses. Christmas is the light in eyes of both adults and children.

Christmas is welcome—into our ·hearts. Christmas is laughter—a special kind. And a smile, a quick smile to the store Santa Claus. to the bustling people on the ing of football. The basketball street, an extra smile to the ones you love. Christmas is a communbaking, house cleaning, crisp snow boxes, small ones, all shapes, some wrapped in tissue, others still in en yet. brown paper. And we set with say "Do Not Open Until --"

Christmas is the importance of mail—hundreds of cards, lists of names and a ddresses, hanging cards on walls. Christmas is rèmembrance carried by a four cent

Christmas is a tree—a green, just cut pine from a timbered field, a miniature baby tree or one that reaches the ceiling. Christmas is love—a message carried all through the centuries from the first gift of a tiny babe. Christmas is The Birthday celebrated throughout the world. Christmas is "Peace on Earth,

Winter Troubles by Dave Dannheim

To shovel the sidewalk You have to be quick. You look back behind you And the snow's a foot thick. You have to go back And shovel some more By the time you are finished Your fingers are sore. You put on some boots That cover your knees, But no matter what's done In your boots snow will squeeze. The ache in your back Will make you give in. With all this snow falling You just cannot win When you go in (With y our body bisected) Straight to the bed Is where you're directed.

Snow by Jean Updyke

This is the time of year when the snow first begins to fall. Yet how would you like to live in the where it is like summer all year week. You pay a dollar down and

All year long there would be grass, flowers and warm weather. The only chance you would have to ski or slide down hill is up on the mountains or on artifical

There wouldn't be any roads closed in the winter because of snow nor would school ever be closed because the buses couldn't get through.

It wouldn't be any fun if you make fat snowmen with black

Besides how would Santa Claus come if there wasn't any snow? And just think of all the slush to splash through when the snow
