Extension Service Offers School For Local Contractors

The Agricultural Department of the Extension Service of Allegany Steuben and Cattaraugus Counties are conducting a one day school for construction men in the area who work on farm buildings. The purpose of the school is to bring them up-to-date on the concepts of specifications, demands, planning and material used in modern farm buildings. The school is set for Wednesday, January 23 at the Rural Engineering Building at the Alfred Agricultural and Technical Institute at Alfred. The school starts at 9:00 a.m., will adjourn at approximately 3:30 on that date.

Rural engineers from Cornell University and the Portland Cement Assoc., will teach the school.

Our strong position in agriculture is considered one of this country's greatest international assets.
