Editorial CONTROL THAT TEMPER by Lee. Kessler

Have you ever lost your temper and barked out mean remarks your friends. All of us are, at one time or another, guilty this! We all reach a point where and start yelling.

Some say it's natural to vent our feelings, and that it's better than keeping them bottled-up inside yourselfs. That may be so, but when we do vent our feelings, may help us, but hurt others deeply. Someone has to bear the brunt of our wrath, and that someone is bound to have unpleasant things said to him.

Perhaps it is better to let things zo unsaid, especially when someone else is going to be hurt. One f the things we must learn from if∈ is self-control. If we don't benefit of others, we will always he next time you feel a raging ell coming on, think of how this may affect other people. the urge to make someone else miserable. You will grow up learning to control that temper.

meets, many have remarked how much they enjoy the diving. Andover's top Wiver, Bruce Johnson, has been/diving about four years and is unbeaten so far this year. This is the first season that our second diver, Knubbie

Wittie has been competing. Coach Barden explains that diving, is a highly complicated sport and requires much concentration. Unlike other sports, diving does not become a habit, but over has a one-meter board and dives on it range from about 1.2 to 2.6 in difficulty. There are two or more judges who rate dives from one to ten. The diver's score is found by multiplying the difficulty of the dive by his rating by the judges. Each diver must do five dives from the five different series, forward dives, back dives, twist dives, inward dives and reverse dives. judges choose one dive and the diver chooses four from each the other categories.
