July 4 Celebration Committee Meets

The Committee of the Andover Fire Department met with other representatives Monday night at the Fire Hall to make further plans for the Celebration to be held the Fourth of July. Several members from the C of C were absent so some of the plans are still up in the air but the following plans are already firmed up:

A Chicken Bar-B-Q will be held at the fire hall, with the Parade led by the Andover Central School Band to follow later in the afternoon. The Firemen will meet members of the Chamber of Commerce in a ball game after the Parade, at the School grounds.

A beauty contest will be held with the winner to be crowned "Queen for the Day" by the local Firemen and she will then have the honor of resigning as Queen when they attend the County Convention.

Various local organizations will set up concessions on the School parking lot for the festivities.

The Committee wishes to thank all of the organizations and individuals who are co-operating, for their assistance and for the floats that have already been promised for the Parade. It is hoped that many more will join in with the belief that the day of our Independence should be remembered and celebrated in order to keep the "Spirit of '76" alive.

$2,285 Stolen From Local Store

Saturday afternoon, several witnesses saw an unidentified man walk into the local Market Basket Store, reach under an un-manned check-out counter, pick up a money bag, tuck it under his arm and walk towards the back of the store.

The Cashier at the other counter was busy serving the customers and didn't notice what was happening, and they thought the man was connected in some way with the store so didn't say anything about it to her.

Around a half hour later Thomas Depp, the newly appointed manager of the store, discovered the theft and reported it to Police Chief Fred Middaugh who made the initial investigation and then called in BCI Investigator Philip Smith of the State Police substation at Wellsville.

According to Chief Middaugh the thief eventually walked thru the store, out the Greenwood St., side exit and then made good his escape in a waiting auto.

Mr. Depp, manager of the store, tells us that the money bag contained $2,285, mostly in cash although several checks were included in the total amount and ASKS IF ANYONE WHO CASHED A CHECK IN THE STORE FRIDAY WOULD PLEASE STOP IN AND SEE HIM AS SOON AS POSSIBLE SO PROPER ARRANGEMENTS COULD BE MADE TO TAKE CARE OF THE SITUATION as well as perhaps furnish a definite clue which could lead to the apprehension of the culprit.

News That's Print To Fit

We see that Merle believes in helping keep his competition in business as he dashed over to the Esso Station shortly after 1:00 p. m., Tuesday and put out a fire in the wash rack drain with his handy Ansul fire extinguisher.

Luckily no one was hurt and no damage was done but we imagine that the young feller on duty will long remember where the fire extinguisher is located as he passed by it three times while trying to put out the fire himself.

While over on the corner we noticed that the empty lot across from the Atlantic Station has grown up into a pretty good crop of weeds and hay. Maybe some farmer has some livestock that needs some good pasture—suppose so?

Speaking of livestock reminds us that Reid's Chanticleer was put to shame last Saturday night by an interloper in that general neighborhood, as many of the residents in that area were awakened in the wee hours of the morning by the braying of an ass.

The way we heard it was that Jack woke Helen up around 2 a. m. to inform her that there was a jackass in their back yard. She thought he was fooling of course or else dreaming so advised him to go back to sleep but about that time the noise was easily discernable.

Jack donned some clothing rapidly and went out to investigate and found a half-grown and highly indignant donkey chained to a pipe in his back yard. On approaching the critter he found that it was trying to establish its mark in the football field as a high kicker cutting loose with both hind feet at a time.

Jack realizing that discretion was the better part of valor went looking for assistance and many called in the Police for some help. Both he and Fred had quite a chore leading and dragging the "Beastie" out to the street as its four wheel brakes were working good and seemed to be locked in the ON position.

It was suspected that one of the neighbors who had been over several times to admire (?) Jack's new fence might have had a hand in making the arrangements for the new tenant, especially since a car was observed to drive into Fay's driveway about that time.

Part of the mystery was soon cleared up however as Jim appeared on the scene shortly afterwards looking for his pet, "Poncho". According to him, the half grown donkey decided he wanted to look for greener pasture and either went for a walk (or ride) to see if the grass was really "greener on the other side of the fence."

During the interim, the creature not wanting to make a complete ass of himself and seeing that he wasn't wanted or appreciated in this locality had wandered off and made himself scarce.

Thus a posse was organized, and Jack appreciating the humor of the situation good naturedly joined in the search.

The errant quadruped was soon located out in back of Mickle's down by Dyke Creek and with much effort was vociferously led to Eddy's truck that had been summoned to the scene and hauled away to "you know where and I don't care", and could be heard braying all the way down Rockabeau Ave., with witnesses claiming it sounded like an opera singer singing "Don't Fence Me In."

This amusing horseplay was quite a contrast to someone else's idea of fun as we are told that the new plant box that had been put out in front of Hazel's Beauty Shop in an effort to help beautify "Ye olde Home Town" was tipped over sometime Saturday night by vandals and the plants ruined. Here's hoping the culprits are caught and are made to plow up a garden patch with their noses and made to put out an acre of onion sets with their teeth!
