HEALTH FOR ALL

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Allegheny Health & Tuberculosis Association, 44 Schuyler St., Belmont, N. Y.

FACTS VS. NON-FACTS ABOUT TB

Despite one of folklore's hoariest bits of wisdom, what you don't know can hurt you. And that goes double in matters affecting your health.

There's the ancient question of tuberculosis, for example — it's been vastly reduced in the last few decades, though getting it down to absolute zero will still take a lot of doing. A couple of generations ago, the common belief was that TB "runs in families." Most people thought it hereditary. Medical science finally succeeded in convincing just about everybody that it's transmitted by a germ and in no other way.

No sooner was this bit of mythology laid to rest, than another took its place. TB victims living at home are most apt to communicate the disease to members of their families—that's true. But observation of this fact led to a common idea that you are more liable to the disease if a member of your family has had it — another version of the "runs in families" fallacy, and almost as untrue! Anybody who has the active disease can transmit the TB germ—the tubercle bacillus — to anybody with whom he comes in contact, although not everyone infected becomes sick.

Still another popular health-delusion is that TB infection promptly causes loss of weight and other symptoms of illness. As a result of this notion, people have been known to ignore a cough, shortness of breath, or even so obvious a sign as expectorated blood. They are "husky and plump, they feel fine—so how could they possibly be in danger of anything like TB?

Unfortunately, anybody can be because the disease often doesn't betray itself through symptoms until it's well advanced.

TB plays no favorites. The only way to be sure you're not infected with the active or inactive germ is the way recommended by all physicians and tuberculosis associations—a periodic tuberculin test or chest X-ray.

Internal Revenue Service To Hold Exam

On September 25 and 26, the U. S. Internal Revenue Service plans to offer its fifth annual examination of persons, other than attorneys and CPAs, who seek to qualify for enrollment to practice before the Treasury Department.

Enrollment is required of persons wishing to represent clients in tax matters before the Department and in certain other actions. Buffalo District Director John E. Foley reminded prospective ap-

It Will Soon Be Fair Time Again

Several changes have been made in the fair book, so be sure to get your copy.

The entries have been simplified. The premiums have been raised.

Plan now to exhibit some of the work you have done this year—canning, fancy work, clothing, jelly, cake and cookies.

The flower department was omitted this year because of a lack of entries, so let's not have this happen to the other departments.

It's possible that the flower department can be reinstated next year if increased interest is shown in other departments.

Let's make the 1963 Allegheny County Fair a good one.

Remember August 6 - 10, Tuesday through Saturday.

Four Home Demonstration Units will be preparing booths for the fair, according to Miss Cathryn R. Berrison, Home Demonstration Agent. The units were selected from the exhibits which were prepared for the Achievement Day in May.

The exhibits are based on projects material included in the current year's program of the Allegheny County Extension Service.

The Friendship Top Notchers have selected the topic "Yes, You Can"—referring to food preservation.

The Voorhees Hill Unit prepared an exhibit on the Public Affairs project, "Why Taxes?"

The floriculture project provided the Alfred Evening Unit with information for their exhibit, "Say It With Few Flowers".

The Transit Bridge Unit selected the importance of proper measurements for satisfactory results from the project, "What Moderns Should Know About Baking Ingredients."

Applicants for the examination to file their applications (Form 2587) with the Office of the Director of Practice, Internal Revenue Service, Washington 25, D. C., no later than August 31, 1963. A check or money order for $25 payable to the Internal Revenue Service must accompany the application form. An additional $25 enrollment application fee will be required from successful examination applicants.

Applicants may secure further information and the necessary forms from: District Director of Internal Revenue, 34 West Mohawk Street, Buffalo 2, New York Telephone: TL 4-4780.
