"Today's youth — Tomorrow's Scientists" is the slogan of the 1963 National Science Youth Month, October. This week we are saluting the "Scientists of Tomorrow" morrow".

Much lies in the unexperienced, but learning and willing hands of America's youth. Today's schools have stepped up science courses to prepare the youth for greater service in the world of tomorrow. These young needle may someday These young people may someday discover a cure for cancer, another universe, or an improved metaod of feeding the starving hoards
