"ONE NATION INDIVISIBLE"

Tragedy! Shock! Disbelief! These became the most used words in the American vocabulary in the English language. Yes, this week-end these became the most used words in any language in any country in the world. Gone were all the demarcation lines. Every one was one race, one creed, one color, and one in the tenderest feelings of sympathy that could possibly be expressed.

You have heard the reactions of all countries and leaders. You have heard the reactions of the citizens of the United States. These same reactions were felt as the students of Andover Central realized that, even though it seemed impossible, it had happened. Each and everyone, as he was watching television, hoping that someone would say this was false, was feeling a different emotion. Some were crying, all were shocked.

The high school students were extremely shocked. This seemed to us to be our first personal touch with history. Yes, we, the television generation have seen the inauguration and launching of astronauts. But, John F. Kennedy was the first President that we followed, debating his policies in history class and following his doings in the newspapers. This was the first President, we knew as a politician.

We, as young Americans, perhaps here begin our scrapbook of historical memories. One day to our children, we will tell of this horrible week-end. Just as our parents have often related to us, where they were and what they were doing, when first they heard of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Not all pleasant memories, but life is not all pleasant and must truly go on. We stand on the threshold with one foot within the past and one foot within the future.

Let us hope that we may carry with us forever those now immortal words - "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask only what you can do for your country."

Students Privilege in School

A student's privilege in school are many if the student's obey and respect the rules set up for them. In most schools, the students have quite a few privileges. Sometimes, they take them for granted though or they start abusing them. Then when the privileges are taken away, the students suddenly realize how much they really meant to them. So when students are in school they should obey the rules set up for their own good and then they may keep on enjoying them.
