

Greenwood Central School News

In Quest of Santa Claus, an operetta by Harry and Carrington was presented at Greenwood Central School Wednesday afternoon as an assembly and Thursday evening to the public.

The operetta was presented by grades 1-3 and the seventh and eighth grade girls under the direction of Mrs. June Rollins, music teacher. Mrs. Rollins was assisted by Mrs. Eleanor Lamphier, Mrs. Virginia York, Mrs. Virgil Street, elementary teachers and High School girls.

Mrs. Marjorie Herrick assisted in making the costumes.

Elton White, Greenwood, has resigned as daily bus driver, on a regular route, effective January 1, according to an announcement made recently by Mr. Lloyd Chaffee, President of the School Board of Greenwood Central School.

He will continue to drive extra trips.

White has driven bus approximately six years.

Fred Teribury, Greenwood, will take his place.

Students consisting of members of the Junior Class and Library Club, of Greenwood Central School visited the Genesee State University recently.

They toured the campus, including classrooms and dormitories, talked to students, and were shown how the Library is operated in a college. They ate in the college cafeteria.

Mrs. Nancy Gould, School Librarian and Mr. Myron Phillips, Guidance Director of Greenwood Central School accompanied them on the trip.

Several girls interested in the business field recently made a visit sponsored by the Guidance Department, to the Olean Business Institute in Olean. While there they were luncheon guests of the Institute. Three girls from (Continued on Page Six) you would be bound to come up with a staggering record of Americans working for the goals of more than 2,100 local TB associations, all linked to the 60-year-old National Tuberculosis Association.

When you see a chest x-ray bus, hear a TV warning against chronic cough and shortness of breath, or read about a nurses, education program in lung diseases, you can bet the last cookie in your canister that the local Christmas Seal organization has a long and busy finger in the project.

The vendetta against sickness of the breathing apparatus waged by these Americans of all ages and both sexes is a long and relentless one. It isn't likely to stop short of full victory. Anybody who's looking for a spare-time activity both absorbing in interest and rich in results could do a lot worse than throw in with this community of spirited citizens in the cause of better health and longer life.

THE HAPPY WARRIORS

Pick a night — any night in the year — Choose an American city or town—north, south, east, west, or somewhere in between — Drop in at the time and place of your random choice, and chances are that somewhere in town you'll find at least one roomful of citizens planning new vigorous steps in a long-range struggle against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

These are the TB Association buffs — officials, staff, committee members and rank and file unpaid workers in the voluntary organization. Nobody has ever attempted to estimate their total number at a given time. But if you were to tally them up across the nation
