Kitchen Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith of the Independence Road, Wellsville, were hosts for the regular meeting of the Southeastern Kitchen Conference of the Allegany County Farm Bureau on Feb. 18th.

During the business meeting Mrs. Iva Sisson reported on Farm Bureau Women's Committee projects and Fred Sisson told of current legislation of interest to farmers.

A discussion of family farms followed the business meeting with Carroll Burdick as the leader. The group defined the family farm as one operated by the family living on it and deriving their main income from it. They felt that the real family farm is not disappearing although the total number of farms is decreasing. With modern machinery and improved methods it has become possible for the farm family to handle an increasing larger operation. It was felt that more government programs pose a threat to the family farms.

The next meeting was scheduled for March 17, 1964 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sisson in Andover.
