Carl T. Rowan, director of the United States Information Agency, spoke at St. Bonaventure University Press Day on Thursday, May 7th to an audience of 2500 high school journalists.

Mr. Rowan, a former reporter and former ambassador to Finland held his listeners entranced for the entirety of the speech. He said that "above all, a newspaper writer must be a person of great moral courage." Mr. Rowan's definition of a modern journalist is "a teacher who must help educate the public; a preacher, who must help set the nation's moral standards; and a social worker who can aid in curing the ills of the world." He received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his speech.

Earlier in the day all students participating attended forty-five minute clinics. These clinics covered all phases of journalism. After Mr. Rowan's speech the awards for school papers were presented. St. Bonaventure University Press Day is truly a national competition. A school from Alaska entered its paper in competition and received a certificate of merit. St. Bonaventure University must be commended on this public service. Letters were real expressing regrets at being unable to attend and extending congratulations to the Department of Journalism from President Johnson, Governor Rockefeller & Senator Javits.

17 Students Receive Certificates of Recognition

Friday afternoon, May 8th, seventeen High School Red Cross members received certificates of recognition for successfully completing the standard course of instruction in first aid to the injured. The certificates which the students received are good for a period of three years from the date of issuance.

FFA News

Several boys attended an FFA State Convention at Attica, N. Y., on May 8 and 9. They were Bob Goodridge, James Dunham, Joe Raub, Martin Howland and Raymond Mead. Joe Raub and Raymond Mead, the delegate and alternate respectively, were allowed to vote and participate in the State Meetings.

At the convention Bob Goodridge was one of seven boys from Allegany County who had the honor of receiving the Empire Farmer Degree which is awarded annually to two per cent of the State FFA enrollment.

A. C. S. Spring Concert To Be Held Friday Night

Tomorrow night in the A. C. S. auditorium, the Music Department will present a Spring Concert. Four groups will be heard. The elementary choir of seventy-five members, the junior high choir, junior band, and the senior band. The concert will start at 8:00 p. m.

Two highlights of the program will be the presentation of the John Philip Sousa Band award to the senior who has contributed most to band and a cornet solo by Dianne Vars.

The dance band and senior choir are busy with rehearsals for the musical comedy "Plenty of Money" which will be presented on June 5th. Plan to save that date for an evening of fun!

Senior Interviews

This week the Hi Herald has the privilege of interviewing Danny Eugene Rossman. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Rossman, received him into the world, June 16, 1946. Danny has three brothers, David, who is attending Ag-Tech in Alfred; Gary, who is in seventh grade and Gregg, who is in second grade.

Besides being an agricultural major, Danny has participated in many extra-curricular activities. He has been on the swimming team for three years, and on track for one year. He is in the chorus and has played in the Orchestra for three years. He has also been in Camera Club for four years and in FFA of which he is vice-president, for three years. Danny plans to go to Alfred Ag-Tech next year.

Danny has many favorites: The food is Pizza, his favorite color is blue, he likes swimming and agriculture.

To this Senior, the best of luck!

One of the most active girls in the Senior Class is Karen Lee Rosintoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosintoski. Born June 16, 1946, Karen has four brothers. They are Jack, Dick, Gary and Gene.

Besides taking a math and science major, Karen has participated in the following activities: chorus, 4 years; FHA, 3 years; Hi Herald, 4 years; being Sports Editor this year; Library Council, 3 years; GAA, 2 years; National Honor Society, 3 years; and Methodist Church Choir. She has had parts in both the Junior and Senior plays.

Karen's favorites are as follows: color, black; subject, English; pastimes, reading, hiking, horseback riding and swimming; sports, swimming, archery, soccer, basketball, and philosophy.

"Thoughts unexpressed may sometimes fall back dead. But even God can't kill them once they're said." Karen's pet peeve is people who pay false compliments. After graduation, Karen plans to major in elementary education at Brockport where she has been accepted.

To Karen, A.C.S., wishes success and happiness always.

In years of old (1946 to be exact), a blessed event befell Mrs. Edna Perry. This addition to the family of two boys—Don and Bob, was a girl child. The name that was bestowed upon her was Ethel Mae.

Ethel has been a very active student at A.C.S., where she has participated in such activities as Junior and Senior Choirs, FHA, Library Council, and National Honor Society, not to mention her roles as Elaine in the Junior Play, and the telephone company supervisor in the Senior Play.

Entwined in the mays of Ethel's favorite things we find: Book, "Jane Eyre"; movie, "Gone With The Wind"; food, Pizza or Roast Beef; subject, shorthand; sport, bowling; pastime, going places; color, blue; and saying, "I wish".

Her pet peeve is people who think they are better than others, and her philosophy is "Get all you can out of this world, but don't forget to give something back to it."

Ethel is the proud recipient of a scholarship from Central City Business Institute at Syracuse, where she plans to further her education.

While in high school, Ethel has majored in business. To Ethel goes all the luck that good wishes can bring.

Our topic for this week is a very familiar figure in the halls of A.C.S. She is Jane Ann Nichols, born March 2, 1946 to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Nichols. Jane has one sister, Mrs. Anita Cahill.

Throughout high school she has majored in business. Jane has held the offices of President and Parliamentarian of the FHA. She has also participated in choir for three years, FHA for four years, GAA for one year, and cheerlead-

Faculty-Board Dinner

The Andover Central School Faculty and Board of Education enjoyed a Smorgasbord at the Cow Palace in Whitesville on Thursday, May 7th. At this time Miss Ruth Baker, who is retiring at the close of this school year, was presented a watch.

Red Cross Car Wash

Saturday, May 9, the H. S. Red Cross sponsored a free car wash for all persons who donated blood at the blood bank. Twentyseven cars were washed. We wish to again thank all persons who donated blood.

FHA News

Esther Bird, Diana Thorp, and Nora Halsey, three FHA members and their advisor, Mrs. Beman will attend the 19th Annual State Meeting of the Future Homemakers of America, at the Manger Hotel in Rochester, N. Y., on May 15-17.

The theme "Action For Citizenship", will be emphasized throughout the meeting.

General sessions on Friday evening and Saturday morning will include reports, skits and special program features to suggest ways in which members can work toward the theme.

Over 600 delegate and their advisors will attend the meeting. They represent many of the affiliated chapters in the New York State Association which is sponsored by the Bureau of Home Economics Education.

Cheer-Up Pills For Bath

The eighth grade section of the Junior Red Cross made cheer-up pills for the Bath Veteran's Hospital. They consist of empty band-aid boxes which have been covered with a lime green paint. They contain jokes which have been cut from newspapers and magazines. The eighth grade mails these little boxes of fun, Cheer-up Pills. Nine have been completed.

Attend Press Conference At St. Bonaventure

On Thursday, May 7, Vicki Lynch and Martha Lynch attended the University Press Day held at St. Bonaventure.

Junior News

The Junior Class has completed their sale of the Stanley Products. They have made a profit of about $150.00. They also would like to thank all those who bought products.

Jane played the part of "Sally" in the Junior Play and "Mrs. Frost" and promoter in the Senior Play.

Among her favorites is the book, "Gone With The Wind"; food, Pizza; subject, bookkeeping; sport, bowling; pastime, playing the piano; saying, "That's the way"; philosophy, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you"; pet peeve, snobbish people.

Jane plans on attending COBI Business School in Syracuse after graduation. The students of A. C. S. wish Jane the best of luck in all she attempts.

This week we have the privilege of interviewing Robert Perry McGillivray. This athletic boy was born April 13, 1945 to Donald and the late Alice McGillivray. "Bob" has two brothers, Dave and Denny and two sisters, Sharon and Delores. He is majoring in business and is very active in sports. He has been on the basketball team one year and the swimming team three years, in which he has taken first place in the "butterfly event" many times.

Among "Bob's" favorites are color, white; food, hamburgers and pastime, thinking. Bob plans to join some branch of the Armed Forces after graduation. We all want to wish you the best of luck in the future, Bob.

Seniors' Impressions Of New York And The Fair

The following paragraphs are excerpts from the compositions written by the seniors about their trip to New York and the World's Fair.

The thing that impressed me the most at the Fair was the New York State Exhibit. In this there was a huge map of New York State on the floor and on this we were quite surprised to be able to locate Andover and Elm Valley.

What impressed me the most about our trip was the two days we spent at the World's Fair and our tour through the United Nations Building. The buildings and exhibits at the fair were like something out of a wonderful dream, so modern it just didn't seem possible that they could be real.

Two of the most beautiful sights were the huge Unisphere at night with the flags of the world making a roadway to it and the fireworks at the Pool of Industry each night at nine o'clock.

One of the things that fascinated me the most about the trip was the subway. I think I enjoyed it more than anything else in the city, so much in fact that I got on it one morning and rode for over an hour. I enjoyed the Swiss sky-ride because you were high enough so you could see the Fair from an aerial view.

We also took the tour through the United Nations, which gave us a better understanding of the purpose and usefulness of having countries meet and discuss their problem. After the tour of the United Nations the phrase, "Peace through Understanding" seemed to take on new meaning.

Across from the United States Pavilion is a small structure of a very modest design. The colors are very dull and unimpressive. The pavilion is marked by a barren wall. Yet, this pavilion is one of the most symbolic and appealing displays at the fair. It is the West Berlin Pavilion.

The interior houses manufactured products and displays which are typical of all the other pavilions and exhibits. However, on the walls are inscriptions and pictures which seem to echo a plea to the people of America; a plea for help in attaining freedom. This desire for freedom is the hidden theme of their exhibit. Berlin is growing industrially, and commercially into a prominent city, but its basic need of freedom and union is not yet satisfied.

As viewers leave, they are confronted with one last reminder and plea. That is a bronze inscription of the late President Kennedy's speech in Berlin in which he stated that every free man is a Berliner and bears the responsibility of Berlin and of its future.

This to me was the most impressive, not because of its splendor, not because of its magnitude, but because of its earnest plea to all America.

The fair was enormous. I had been told that the fair would be tremendous. Yet, since I had seen the State Fair, I felt that it would just be a large state fair. It most certainly wasn't.

The General Electric Pavilion is undecipherable. We sat in an auditorium. We moved and the stage moved. The stage was divided in sections according to life in the 1900's, 1920's, 1940's, and 1960's. Life in each of these eras was told by animated people. At first it was almost impossible to determine whether or not these people were alive or not. They tapped their feet, crossed their legs, scratched their heads, and mouthed words just as you or I would do.

The Johnson Wax Pavilion showed us a movie. The movie made you feel as if you were really there. At one point a girl was riding down a hill on a motorcycle. We, the audience, were actually swaying with the motorcycle and felt the breeze on our faces.

During the day the Unisphere way gray. At night this was lit up and turned blue. Each capital of all the countries in the world was indicated by a light.

The grounds were covered with beautiful spouting water falls. Yet none were more beautiful than the constantly changing water fountains at the fireworks. The fountains at one time or another were every color in the universe all mixed together. The dazzling fireworks were shot up thru these fountains.

We walked all day long and only once did we spot another student from Andover. When we did, it was just like Old Home Week.

The best things on the fairgrounds G. E., General Motors, Chrysler, and Johnson's Wax, plus many more were all free.

The main thing I liked most about our Senior Trip was the World's Fair. It was so large and some of the exhibits were magnificent and unbelievable. The one pavilion that impressed me the most was the General Electric building. As you were seated in the circular building, it moved clockwise until the audience was in front of a stage. On the stage was a 1900 kitchen with a man and a dog. They were dummies, but full size and the man talked about the many conveniences they had due to electricity. The building moved four times to the kitchens in the 1920's, 1940's and 1960's, showing electricity in progress.

After this everyone was ushered on to a ramp and above this they showed a storm and lightning. Down below the ramp there was a demonstration of nuclear fission.

Another pavilion that impressed me was the General Motors building. It was called "Futurama" and showed what cities would be like in the future, underwater hotels and many buildings and types of transportation. Also, another pavilion was the Vatican which had a huge light shown on Michelangelo's Pieta.

The thing I disliked about the trip to New York City. It was terribly dirty and the people were very cool.

To say what I enjoyed most about my Senior trip is somewhat difficult. Of course there were many magnificent exhibits at the World's Fair, but all in all, the one thing that I feel gave me the best impression was the people themselves.

At one particular moment at the Fair, I was standing in line at the New York State Pavilion waiting to go up two hundred feet in the tower. Behind me stood two gentlemen talking fluently in Spanish. Then at the International Plaza, I experienced every kind of language and culture from American to Indian. Even in New York City I found every size, shape, color, creed and nationality.

There people, all assembled together, I feel impressed me the most.

Purple And White

Last Monday the Andover Baseball Team went to Belmont where they lost 3 to 2.

Belmont squeezed in 3 runs on 2 hits from the Andover pitcher, Jim Cannon. Belmont's pitcher, Jeff Crowther, struck out nine Andover batters in the first four innings. Andover scored one run in the first and one run in the fifth inning.

Andover beat Belmont 3 to 2 with Ira Connor getting all three hits and a triple.

With the excellence of weather, the boys are playing softball and tennis with the girls doing the same.

College Boards

Nine members of the junior class were present for the Scholarship Achievement Tests, given in the Wellsville High School gym on May 3. The Juniors who took the exam were: Ed Smith, Dave Wightman, Jeff Connor, Ron Cook, Danny Smith, Jean DeReiner, Pat Gath, Dianne Vars and Ruth Allen.
