News That's Print To Fit

We have several rather important items of interest so about the safest lead-off for this week more than likely is the weather.

Yep, we saw the first snow of the season Tuesday evening and had plenty of witnesses to back up our observation. We also had several reports from people living in the area hills that there was quite a snow storm, although none of it stayed on the ground very long.

We also noticed that a low of 19 was reported in one of the daily Newspapers for the Nation's low—but according to the Boys down at the Pump Station, a recorded low of 16 on Wednesday morning easily tops that record. Besides that, a low of 19 was recorded for this A. M. Where, Oh where is that predicted warm weather for this week?

We noticed that there is a very nice, attractive window display in Vars Jewelry Store put in by the Local Fire Prevention Committee. This reminds us that this Saturday night all local residents will have a chance to take part in honoring "Jim" Jackson, winner of the New York State "Fireman of the Year" award.

This is an opportunity for all of "Jim's" friends to get in on the "Celebration Act" and enjoy a friendly get-together as well. Here's hoping to see you all at the dinner, or at least at the program in the evening which incidentally is free.

Incidentally, with all of this cool weather, the leaves have been falling rapidly and we see that the Village Street Department has been picking up the larger collections of them on some of the Streets.

Every year, when we have a dry season, the large collection of leaves poses a very great fire hazard so it behooves all of us to be extra careful as far as Fire Prevention is concerned. So be extra careful where you throw those cigarettes—and for extra safety, it might be a good idea to keep the leaves raked away from all of your buildings.

Oh Yes! We can't forget that annual sickness that overtakes most Americans at this time of the year which contributes to more business neglect than at any other time of the year. You've guessed it—it's World Series Time! This is the time when more people get sick—and irritated than at any other time of the year also. (Of course they get better the next day—especially if their favorite team wins.)

At the risk of bringing down the wrath of all those "Yankee Fans" on our head—we favor the Cardinals in 7 games with the present appearance of the Series tied up at 1 game apiece.

Since we understand that at least five of the local motorists headed our warnings about car inspections last week, we want to call attention to all motorists that the so-called new "Rules of the Road" became effective the 1st of October.

It might be a good idea if all drivers check up on these new changes to save themselves possible embarrassment in the future.

We will try to print all of these changes in future editions so that our readers will at least have a chance to know what they are all about.

Social Security News

If you are over 65 and still working, you should consult your nearest social security office.

Have you read or heard the above advice before but then failed to follow up on it? If so, this article is for you.

Most people know that in order to collect social security benefits for each month in the year, they must limit their earnings to $1200 for that year.

What many people do not seem to realize is that even if one is over 65 and still earning more than $1200 a year, it is possible that some social security benefits can be paid. For each $2 of earnings over $1200, only $1 of a beneficiary's social security payments is withheld. For earnings above $1700, an additional $1 in social security benefits is withheld for each $1 in earnings.

However, regardless of total earnings for a year, the claimant can receive full benefits for any month in which he earned $100 or less, and did not "render substantial services" in self-employment. An application must, of course, be filed before any benefits can be paid.

Therefore, if you are over 65 and still working, you should definitely consult your social security district office at 132 N. First St., in Olean.
