Editorial

Saturday, October 24 is the nineteenth birthday of the official chartering of the United Nations. Nineteen years ago on that day, the Congress of the United States presented the ratified charter to the Department of State.

It seems that the United States has played a large part in the U.N. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., donated the money to buy the grounds on which the U.N. stands. The United States loaned, interest free, $50 million to the U.N. for building the modern structures which house it. The United States has paid its dues when other nations, like Russia, have refused. American children collect for UNICEF each year on Halloween. Therefore, we can be proud of our part.

This large role must show that the people of the United States have great faith in the U.N. And for good reason. The U.N. has stopped little wars, like the Cyprus dispute, from erupting into world wars. The Congo has hardly been heard from since the U.N. went in. It's that quiet there.

Without the U.N., it's hard to say what would have happened after World War II. Look at what happened when the League of Nations fell. So - Happy Birthday, U.N! And may it have many more successful years.

Liberty Enlightening the World
A mighty woman with a torch, whose head is crowned is the imprisoned lightning and her name Mother of Exiles.

From: "The New Colossus" by Emma Lazarus

Nearly seventy-eight years ago on October 28, there was unveiled on Bedloe's Island a huge copper statue of a proud woman dressed in a loose, flowing robe. This statue was named "Liberty Enlightening the World". Today, that same statue stands towering over New York Harbor on an island now called "Liberty Island" and it is known everywhere as the Statue of Liberty. The woman's name was changed; the name of her residence changed, but the ideas for which she stands never changed and never will. The Statue of Liberty symbolizes an idea immortal and unchanging in the hearts of free people all over the world. She is a reminder of the liberty and brotherhood that we, in the United States especially enjoy.

On October 28, we should keep in our minds just what the copper statue on Liberty Island represents and why it is there.

Safety Citation

In recognition of the development of a pupil transportation safety program, a citation was awarded to the bus drivers of Andover Central School for the year of 1963-64. This citation is given in recognition of no injuries to transported pupils during the school year. It is awarded by the State Education Department of the University of the State of New York.

Spy!

Well, here I am again, bringing you lads and lassies up to-date on the local happenings!

Thursday night, the only activity known of was a "taffy pull" at Ruth A.'s house. Was it good?

Among Friday night's headline news, we find that the pool hall was frequented by some unusual patrons—GIRLS!

Diane B. threw a party Saturday night. There wasn't anyone from Belmont, was there, Diane? My reporters spotted one freshman, two juniors, and countless seniors, plus one graduate!

Among the Wellsville midnight show watchers were: Max G. and S. T., D. P., and D. B., Jane C. and a certain guy from WLSV, and Jeanette and Bob H. Was it as good as expected?

I hear that a certain senior boy wishes to take dancing lessons. Good luck!

Welcome back from Connecticut Jeff! Someone missed you!

Steve B. was bombed ground in the "green and cream" Sunday afternoon. Lookin' for somebody?

Looks like Dianne V. got a pleasant surprise Sunday morning. Was the breakfast good?

Say, "Ike" what happened to you Saturday night? Have fun?

In closing, I would like to express my gratitude of all Andover teenagers to Ordiways.

Buy for now. But watch it or you might get caught by the SPY!
