Andover Has Quiet Hallowe'en

The influences of the "good" witches were in power over Andover Saturday night as bunches of funny faces and costumes of all sizes and shapes roamed our streets. A large attendance met at the American Legion Park and led by the Andover Central School Band, with lights provided by the new Andover Fire Truck marched up main street to the athletic grounds where donuts and cider were generously shared by an appreciated crowd. From here the older group attended the dance at the Lynch-Burgett American Legion home which was well attended. The younger group going out for the "tricks or treat" program and pennies for UNICEF were collected.

The children of Andover as well as the parents are to be commended for the well mannered approach taken this year during Hallowe'en. It was really fun to greet the masked faces of our young citizens of Andover.

A vote of appreciation goes to the Committee in charge of the various phases namely: James H. Kessler, Robert Baker, Elmo Barden, Frank Russell and Walter (Mike) Gath.

Missionary Convention Christian & Missionary Alliance Church

A young missionary to Viet Nam who completed language study there to a steady accompaniment of rebel Viet Cong gunfire will come here to speak in a church missionary convention.

He is the Rev. Kenneth F. White, who has returned with his wife for a year's furlough after five years spent in war-torn Viet Nam.
