 American Educational Week is being observed November 8 thru 14. This year's theme is "Education Pays Dividends" Each day has as its theme one area in which education pays dividends.

First - in better human relations. Students meet people thru books and learn to understand them. They learn what problems other people have and how to help solve them.

Second - Improved learning power. Reading and interpreting, reasoning and concluding, are vital links between all books and life's experiences.

Third - personal fulfillment. People get great satisfaction from finding the answers to problems and reading poetry or history.

Fourth - good citizenship. Thru education, people are able to reason out political charges. They are able to form opinions and defend them, thus insuring our form of democracy.

Fifth - national economic growth. By education, people learn skilled trades, earn money, and boost the economy by spending that money on other products.

Sixth - better communities. Citizens are better informed by reading and are able to realize how necessary education is and how important education is beyond high school.

Seventh - international relations. After learning of the problems of other countries, we can help and educate them.

Most Americans do not realize what an education does for them, but those who have no education know how important it is.

National Book Week

This week, November 2 to November 6, denotes National Book Week throughout the United States. This is the time when we should remember how important books and reading are to us.

Here at A.C.S., we celebrate National Book Week with a Book Fair on Thursday, November 12. Here, there is a chance to take a look at all the new books that have been bought by the school library. There will also be books on sale throughout the day and evening.

There has been a great variety of new books added to the library and they will become available to the students soon. Some of them are: "Yugoslav Mystery" by Arthur Catherall, "The Barred Road" by DeLeeue, "More Research Ideas for Young Scientists" by George Barr, "Willie Mays" by Gene Schoor, "Anne Frank" by Ernst Schnabel, and "Air War Against Hitler's Germany" by Stephen Sears. These are just a few of the many books that the students can enjoy.

This is just our way of showing how important books are to everyone.

Spy

Hello there! This is your friendly Spy bringing you all the latest news and juicy bits from in and around the halls of A.C.S.

Well, it looks as if Celia has a new flame. They were seen riding around Sunday afternoon and from what I heard they had trouble with a flat tire! Better luck next time!

Hey! Jeanie and Janet what's going to happen the 20th? Could it be part of the "big" secret? By next week, I'll have this information fans!

It seems as if there will be another lonesome heart in Andover! Poor Sandy! Max leaves Thursday! I've heard that Bonnie had a visitor this last Friday night! It seems that he makes many lengthy visits.

Pat has also been making new friends from what I hear. Are there any other nice guys in Arkport?

Too bad Ruth couldn't have had her party this last weekend. That could have been fun. I've also heard that she had four visitors from Watkins Glen over the weekend.

Seen at the midnight show in Wellsville were Sharon and Larry, Jane and Cheryl. Weren't you scared kids?

Saturday Cheryl received a letter. Could it be from B.R.? I hear he will soon be stationed in Florida.

Bobbie was home this weekend. We would like to see her home for more weekends. And so would B.V.

Some one had a party Saturday night to take the place of Ruth's! How about that, Diane? However, B.S. kept Diane busy most of the time. Others present were "Goat" and Janet; Jeff and Jean; Pat, Celia, Sharon, Buzzie and many others.

The dance, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Legion, was also a great success. Let's hope we can have more such dances in the near future.

Purple and White

Last Thursday the Andover Soccer team lost their last game of the season at Belmont. Ray McCormick made Andover's only point. The final score was 4-1. The soccer team wound up the season in fourth place, winning three games, losing six and tying one.

West Hill Skyliners

A Hallowe'en masquerade party was held Friday night, October 30, at the home of Mrs. Flora Lounsberry. A wide assortment of costumes was modeled by 4-H'ers. Albert Lounsberry took the first prize for the best dressed lady. Games, dancing, and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

ACS Students Enter

Essay Contest

Four students have entered the Fire Prevention Essay Contest sponsored by the Western Zone Firemen's Association of N.Y.S. Those entering are Susan McClure, Joyce Freeland, Fred Midgah and Joseph De Remer. They wrote on the subject "Fire Prevention in The Home".

Yearbook News

The Yearbook staff wishes to announce that faculty, staff and activity pictures will be taken Tuesday, November 17th by our photographer Mr. Gignac.
