A sign in Miss Troxell's office says: "Winners are never quitters. Quitters are never winners."

While this may not exactly fit the swimming team, the main idea fits. Last year our team COULD NOT win because they didn't have enough swimmers. At the start of the season, there were more than enough swimmers, but the boys gradually quit. Consequently, the team didn't have enough boys to complete in all events, and they lost many of their meets.

Of course, a few had to quit. Even by studying twice as hard some boys could not bring their marks up. But with a little extra effort, most boys could raise their marks enough to meet requirements.

Those that put in the extra effort found that the practice wasn't impossible. They worked, they won, and they broke records doing it.

At the same time, they found that complete team does better than a partial one when it comes to success. Just as quitters never win in swimming meets, we, as quitters, can never find success in anything. Isn't it about time everybody put forth a little extra effort in everything?

Senior Interview

by Diane Brown

On January 10, 1947, Mr. and Mrs. William Conner became the parents of a son, Ira Lee. Ira is the eldest child of his family, which includes two younger sisters.

Ira's major is business. Through out his years in high school Ira has been a very active participant in sports. He has been in soccer, baseball, track, and basketball for four years. He was also named to the Allegany County Basketball All-Star Team. Other sports include: volleyball for two years, and badminton. In badminton Ira has been the school champion for the last two years, District School champion in 1964, and runner-up in the County championship in 1964. Other than sports he has participated in chorus for three years and had the part of Dr. Johnson in the Junior play.

The Golden Rule is Ira's philosophy and his pet peeve is people who don't participate in sports.

Among "Ike's" favorites we find: saying—"girls"; color, green; book, "All is Quiet On The Western Front"; movie, "The Longest Day"; food, anything and everything; subject, English; and hobby tennis.

It has been a real pleasure having "Ike" as a classmate. We all wish him the best of luck in the future.
