There is a saying that people work best under pressure. How true this was Friday. Before a gymnasium about three-quarters full of screaming Andover fans, our basketball teams won both games. The enthusiastic fans, caught up in the eagerness and spirit of the boys' teamwork, let it be known that we were with them all the way. They played and we cheered.

I know that both coaches and players will join me in thanking all the people for such a turn-out and for being so well-mannered. There was a tremendous amount of cheering. At times, the cheerleaders could scarcely be heard.

From the description, it would seem that we played a championship game instead of the usual league game. However, let's continue to be ardent supporters, hoping always to win. Maybe this is the year that we will go all the way. Let's support our team!

Downbeats

The music department is busily rehearsing for its Annual Christmas Concert which will be held Friday, December 18, at 8:00 p. m., in the school auditorium. This year as in the past, the music department is attempting a different program with much variety.

The program will be preceded by a few minutes of Christmas carols played by the brass sextette. The Elementary Choir will open the concert, followed by the Sixth Grade Choir, the Junior High Girls' Choir, the Junior High Select Choir, and finally the Senior High Choir. The program will end with a medley of seven Christmas carols performed by a brass masse.

Also, on Saturday morning, Andover's leading musicians will represent the school at Scio in the All-County Band and Chorus auditions. The results of these tryouts will be published at a later date.

Five Weeks Tests

Five Weeks Tests will be held Wednesday, December 16th.
