Cappadonia, associate professor of music at the two-year college, the choir will open the tour at Perry Central School at 9 a. m., and will give a second morning concert at Warsaw Central School at 10:30. An afternoon concert is scheduled for 1:30 at York Central School.

The former Glidden Pottery building on North Main St., in Alfred was damaged by fire about 1 a. m., Monday. The damage was confined primarily to the roof beams and roof boards. Dr. Finlay noted. It is believed that the fire started when the beams became overheated around the chimney of a new kiln which had been installed in the building.

Receives "Good" Award In Annual Apple Pie Contest

Miss Dorothea Glover, an 18 year old Elm Valley Pokes 4-H Club Member, participated in the Annual Apple Pie Contest sponsored by the New York State Horticultural Society Show on January 20th in the Rochester War Memorial.

As a result of her show-how demonstration and a completed apple pie, this Allegany County Miss was awarded an apron and a red ribbon denoting a "Good" Award.

While in the Flower City, Dorothea was a guest of the Manger Hotel for lunch and had a tour of the Gerber Baby Products Plant. The evening banquet was "free" to the Apple Pie Contestants and their chaperones. This was the annual banquet of the Horticultural Society when many awards are given to growers and packers of quality products such as apples, potatoes and onions.

According to Alice Evans, County Homemaking Leader, this will be Dorothea's last year in club work. She will reach her nineteenth birthday in the spring and will no longer be eligible for 4-H membership. Participating in the Allegany County Apple Pie Contest and being a winner is a fitting finale to her 10 years of 4-H Club membership.

Alfred Ag-Tech Receives Federal Grant For Needy Students

The State University Agricultural and Technical College at Alfred has received a grant of $11,648 from the federal government for participation in its new Work-Study Program, David H. Huntington, president of the two-year college, has announced.

Devised as an aid for needy college students, the Work-Study Program is one of the projects contained in the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

According to President Huntington, the purpose of the program "is to provide work opportunities for students from low income families who are in need of earnings to finance their education."

Under the act, the federal government grants 90 per cent of the cost of the program, with the receiving institution supplying 10 per cent. The federal grant has been matched with $1,164 appropriation from the Alfred Tech Benevolent Association, bringing the total amount of funds for the Work-Study Program to $13,388.

The Alfred Tech Work-Study Program is expected to provide part-time employment for approximately 50 students, with each student receiving an average of $250 during the academic semester.

The size of the grant will be determined by student need and will be directly based on family income. College officials estimate that of the 1735 students enrolled, about 300 are eligible for grants.

The maximum number of hours a student may work is 15 per week, with compensation varying with job assignment. Among the part-time positions available to students are laboratory assistants, paper graders, stockroom assistants, clerk-typists, exam proctors, library aides, audio-visual aides, intra-mural assistants, and maintenance helpers.

The current federal grant, for use until June 30, 1965. At which become effective Monday, is that time, the college plans to apply for federal funds for the September semester.

Robert McEnroe, assistant Dean-Counselor, will be coordinator for the Work-Study Program on the local two-year college campus.
