Editorial

by Jean DeRemer

April is here and we Seniors are anticipating our few days in New York City. Girls are worrying about wardrobes and boys are kidding the girls about the amount of luggage the girls will need.

It takes a large sum of money for forty people to spend four days in New York. We have worked for the past two years raising that money. We've had two plays, a Chicken Bar B-Q, we've sold candy and magazines, and many other projects have come and gone.

Wherever there is something to be sold, there must be a buyer. This is where the people of Andover enter the picture. You've helped us get the money we need by buying our goods. You could almost count on us to come to your doors about once a month to ask you to buy something.

For this continual buying, I know the Seniors are with me when I say "Thank you very much". Without your help, we would never be able to go. Once again, thank you for your support.

Feature

Are You An April Fool?

It's true that April Fool's Day is the day for practical jokes and mischief. Everyone is on his guard not to get caught or be made a fool of by some practical joker.

This practice is all well and good and can prove to be much fun, but high school students, especially seniors, should take note of this day and cast a wary eye toward the three, all too short, months ahead. In just a little more than twelve weeks, Regents and final examinations will be upon us. For some, these exams will be a deciding factor as to whether they will go on to the next grade — for others, it will be a matter of graduating or staying behind one more year.

Are your marks up to par? Are you going to make the grade and go on to bigger and better things? Do you have any plans made for next year? These are questions that all high school students should now be concerned with.

Let's just hope it's not too late to get busy and pick up where we may have left off. April Fool's Day is only supposed to last one day, so don't let yourself get caught being an "April Fool" these next three months.

Senior Interview

One of Andover's seniors this year likes pizza. He also likes spaghetti and the color blue. Can you guess yet who he is? Here are a few more hints. His pet peeve is people who exaggerate and talk about themselves. "You're only young once, so enjoy it", is his philosophy. He is quite sensible in saying that his favorite subjects are the ones he can pass. He must have quite a few because he seems to be doing quite well.

In high school, he has majored in science and agriculture. He has participated in activities during these years besides studying. In the Senior Play he was "Omar". He has participated in two years of varsity wrestling, and four years in FFA.

He was born on November 15, 1947 and he has two sisters, Maxine and Charlotte. Upon graduation he plans to attend Alfred Tech and take a dairy industry course.

In case you haven't guessed already here is the final clue: his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mead. You're right, this week's Senior is Raymond Frank Mead.

Ten Weeks Test

Ten Weeks Tests will be given Wednesday and Thursday, April 7 and 8 with school closing at 2:30 p. m., on Thursday. Classes will resume on Friday as usual.

Junior Play Friday Night

The Juniors are presenting their play "Onions in the Stew" with permission of the Dramatic Publishing Company on Friday, April 2, at 8:00 p. m.

Valley Ball Game

A Volleyball game was played Friday, March 26, after school. There were twelve teachers consisting of Miss Harris, Miss Clemens, Miss Perry, Miss Troxell, Miss Church, Mrs. Reil, Mrs. Hayes, Miss Goodridge, Mrs. Peckham, Mrs. Burger and Mrs. McClure. Twelve senior girls participated. Each of the five games played were won by the senior girls.

Remember When

Gail Burdick was a "Brownie" in a Hallowe'en party, receiving Honorable Mention.

Dianne Vars brought her parakeet to school.

David Peckham was a birthday guest of Dick Lang.

Jane Cook was hurt in a fall while she was playing.

Raymond Mead treated his classmates to lollipops for his birthday.

William Greene brought a monarch butterfly to school.

Jean Harvey's lamb had four babies.

Kathy Shellman and Martha

Lynch brought their little brothers to the Valentine Party.

Jean Harvey had her picture taken at the "Kiddie Corner" and had it put in the window.

Jeff Common presented each of his classmates with a toothbrush in honor of his birthday.
