Grace Young, Reporter

National Meeting of the Future Homemakers of America was held at Philadelphia, Pa., July 12 to 15 with 1500 teen-agers and advisors of high school home economics students. Debbie Teribury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Holt, was the delegate from Greenwood Central School FHA Chapter, and participated in activities related to the meeting's theme, "Building Blocks for the Future".

Mrs. Orville Freeman, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, made the keynote speech on this theme. She urged the girls to participate in programs as community beautification and aid to free schoolers through project head start. "These things you can do", she said "to help prepare not only yourself, but the world for the great future ahead."

Other speakers included, Dr. Mary Calderone of New York City executive director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S.; Helen M. Thal, education director of the Institute of Life Insurance; from Washington D. C., were Dr. Pauline G. Stitt of the Children's Bureau and Dr. Theodore Coti, vocational guidance specialist for the U.S. Office of Education. Also Paul Peterson, Star of the Donna Reed Show spoke on the March of Dimes and told how FHA members can help these stricken children.

The four-day meeting introduced projects selected by the FHA National Youth Officers for the National Program of work that will guide activities of the organizations half a million members during the next four years. Objectives of the projects include: constructive use of leisure time, understanding and tolerance of all peoples, attaining good family relations through good communication and encouraging individuality in place of mass conformity.

Delegates are responsible for bringing ideas picked from the National Meeting back to members of their local chapters and state associations. During the meeting, Debbie served as Hostess for a discussion group.

Attention!

As a Special Event for the Summer, the Playground will be presenting a number of plays.

We would like children from each block to pick out a fairy-tale story, write up their play, and be prepared to produce and direct it. If there are not enough children on one block, they may join children in the nearest block.

After the plays are picked, report to me and give me the name of your play and the children who are in it. There will be certain nights set aside which I will help your group if you wish.

The best play will receive a prize of three dollars. The money may be divided among the children in the winning play.

The plays will be presented on a Friday evening, August 20th, so parents and friends can attend.

If there are any questions concerning this, please contact Sandra Thorp.

Cindy Barden, Steve Dunham, Danny Burgett, Nickie Dean, Mark Snyder

We'll see you next week on Friday afternoon. See how much candy you can win.
