

Small Game Gunning Season Announced

Opening dates for New York's 1965-66 small game gunning season have been announced by the State Conservation Department.

For roughly the eastern half of the State, an Oct. 4 opening has been set for squirrel, ruffed grouse, pheasant and cottontail rabbit. Western New York gunners have an Oct. 4 opener for squirrel and grouse, but must wait the traditional two weeks until Oct. 18, before going afield for pheasants and cottontails, the so-called "farm game" species.

According to Ralph B. Colson, chief of the bureau of game, a uniform opening date for a 25 county area stretching from the Canadian border to the Pennsylvania line is possible on a "trial" basis where an early October season on "farm game" species is not expected to conflict with agricultural operations. In Western New York, where farming is more intensive, the delayed opening on pheasants and cottontails is being retained.

This is the first time in recent history that a substantial portion of the State has opened on the same date for both "woodland" and "farm game" species, he said.

Eastern New York counties covered by the October 4 opening on all small game include: Albany, Clinton, Columbia, Delaware, Dutchess, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Hamilton, Montgomery, Orange, Otsego, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, St. Lawrence, Saratoga, Schoharie, Schoharie, Sullivan, Ulster, Warren, Washington and Westchester.

Long Island gunning season for squirrel, ruffed grouse, pheasant, quail, cottontail rabbit and raccoon start Nov. 1.

The open season for Hungarian Partridge will run Oct. 4 - Oct. 23 in Clinton, Franklin and St. Lawrence counties. In Jefferson, the only other county to have an open season on "birds," the season is Oct. 18 - Nov. 6.

A wild turkey season in Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua and Steuben counties will run six days, Nov. 1 - 6. A special turkey season for portions of eastern New York is anticipated, but hunting dates have not been set.

Bird hunters are in store for some "bonus" shooting on several species. The ruffed grouse season runs a month longer than usual due to an "abundant and healthy population." The dates statewide are Oct. - Jan. 31. In Clinton, Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, pheasant hunting will continue through Nov. 6, two weeks longer than the other eastern New York counties where the regular season closes Oct. 23.

Albany and Ulster counties have been added to the list of counties where it is legal to take hen pheasants during the regular season.

In Orange, Putnam and Westchester counties, the quail season will run Oct. 4 - 23. These are the only upstate counties that have an open season on quail.

New York's hunting year for small game license holders starts October 1. Bag limits, gunning hours, hunting regulations and complete season dates are included in the Department's "Hunting, Trapping and Fishing Guide" which will be available at Conservation Department offices and license-issuing agents about September 1.

Following is a regional breakdown of hunting dates and bag limits for all small game species.

News That's Print To Fit

We hear that there is a "cat & mouse" game being played with an apartment that is rented—but that will have new tenants next month. The old adage: "when the cat's away, the mice will play" seems to apply here—for according to the tenant, when he leaves the place all nice and locked up—when he returns, someone has been there. Must have been Mighty Mouse, cause no little mouse could jimmy a window or door.

We understand that some of the residents on Rochambeau Avenue (the Canadian side of Town, that is), were surprised this past week when they had roily water emanating from their faucets. Seems some of the firemen were flushing out the hydrants down that-a-way, but eventually the ones "in the know" aren't on-speaking—or writing terms with that Editor Feller as no notice was given the local paper. It was called to our attention that it was in the Wellsville Paper—but we don't imagine that Wellsville residents were very interested. Someone else also said that it was on the Radio—but strange as it may seem to some people—everyone doesn't have time to listen to the radio—and besides there are other stations that are popular like WKBW, ET AL. Then too a lot of the local people take other papers than the Wellsville one. According to our thoughts—anything that concerns Public Utilities—should also appear in the local paper; and unless that paper receives a note about it—it sure can't report it!—10-4?

The ACS Home Room assignments in this week's paper is more than just a grade manual to students and parents alike that—summer vacation is just about over with and that School opening is just around the corner. Yep, Labor Day is just a little more than a week away—and those white shoes can be put away for another season.

Speaking of Labor Day reminds us of the New York State Exposition—commonly called the State Fair, in Syracuse. According to the literature we received from the Fair Board: It opens Tuesday, August 31, for seven days and nights from 10 a. m., daily, with 1,001 free things to do and see.

111 all-free shows featuring top recording and TV stars, headlined by Roger Miller, Aug. 31; Jody Miller, Sept. 1; Lassie, on the same dates; Bobby Vinton, Sept. 2 - 3; Anita Bryant, Sept. 4 - 6; and Lionel Hampton and his orchestra for the entire 7 days and nights.

The free Grandstand will feature: High School Bands Competition, Aug. 31; Harness Racing, Sept. 2; Sports Car Gymkhana, Sept. 4; Historic Auto Exhibition and Grand Concourse d'Elegance, Sept. 5; and "Arenas of Death" thrill show from Aug. 31 thru Sept. 5th. Other events: —Sept. 6 are the New York State Championship Stock Car Race and Destruction Derby.

The world's largest Horse Show—will be held in the Coliseum every day except Thursday, Sept. 2—free for the 1st time this year. Other free shows at the Coliseum are: Horse Pulling Contest, Sept. 11; Square Dance Festival, Sept. 2; and Cattle Judging, Sept. 1 - 3. The largest Cattle Show in the East will again host the biggest Holstein division in the country.

The Art and Home Center will have something for every member of the family at the former Women's Building. (So it says!)

Senior citizens will compete in sections of arts and crafts, and the Auburn Children's Theater will present the "Wizard of Oz" live 3 times daily. (Must be there the rest of the time he is dead!)

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert M. Taylor of Addison, formerly of Andover.

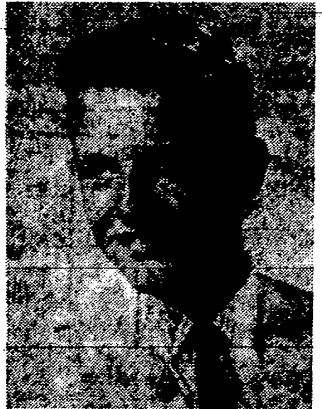

light-colored fruits when they are being prepared for freezing (Pears, Peaches, etc).

Tomatoes continue to ripen at room temperature. Direct sun light is not beneficial. (Thus save those kitchen window sills for something else).

Early Blights on Tomatoes—Continue making applications of fungicide sprays (maneb at 3-4 tablespoons per gallon of water) to control early and late blights.

High humidity and late morning fogs are ideal conditions for rapid development of blight.

Fall is the time to plant Spring-Flowering Bulbs. New York State residents can learn the best methods of planting them by requesting a bi-fold, free copy of bulletin F-806 "The Culture of Spring-Flowering Bulbs" from the Mail- ing Room, Stone Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. 14850.
