HALL OF FAME

James Sawyer Howland

A student whom A.C.S. students are very proud to know is James Sawyer Howland, known to us as "Jim". It was proud parents that looked down at "Jim" on December 17, 1952. Little did Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Howland know that in the coming years, Jim would be the winner of a Regents Scholarship, in his senior year in high school.

Jim has majored in Math and Science throughout school. He has been a very busy person as he is interested in sports. He was in track, four years; basketball, three years; soccer, three years; Varsity Club, three years; Red Cross, four years and in Hi Herald four years. He is Sports Editor of Hi Herald this year. In his Junior year he participated in the Oratorical Contest. He also is on the Yearbook Staff and is the Senior Class Student Council Representative.

Jim's future plans are as yet incomplete, but he does want to further his education.

Everyone always wishes someone "good luck", but to Jim, the students want to wish more than just "good luck". We wish him, THE BEST!

"What the World Needs Now"

If an intellectual being from another planet were to view Earth for a period of time, he would find a world drenched in poverty, disease, apathy, cruelty, and dissension. I'm sure that it would not be a very pleasant sight.

You ask, "What can I do about such enormous problems if even the world's most learned men cannot solve them?"

Granted, such a large task would be difficult for one person standing alone. But part of the solution could be found in one small but strengthening word: unity. By this I mean unity of heart and purpose, as well as physical unity. If the world's people had common goals, they could more readily achieve them through unity.

If we are to achieve success in the fields of space, medicine, and human rights we must unite together. By fighting and opposing one another constantly, we are being detrimental not only to ourselves, but to the world as a whole.

In my opinion, what the world truly needs now, especially in this time of confusion, is unity. Without it we will never successfully achieve OUR dreamed goal of peace and happiness throughout the world.

All I Have To Do Is Dream

To escape from reality from the tensions and pressures of life in today's fast-moving society—they say that's the reason why many teenagers and adults today take drugs.

To me, there has to be a better, and easier way out. The simple day dream seems like a good method. It gives an individual an escape from reality into a world which he, and he alone, creates. If he really leaves the world when he dreams, he can imagine almost anything he wants. He may dream of someone loved or he may dream of someone where he would like to go someday. There may not even be such a person or a place, but there doesn't have to be because the purpose of a dream is to escape from reality. A dream is a fantasy, a world of make-believe and let's pretend. It sounds rather childish, but it isn't when you think of man's problems today.

The happiest time of a man's life is his childhood. For the rest of his life, he may want to return to his childhood days. He cannot ever return physically, but he can return through dreams. He may return to the time when everything was make-believe and everything was beautiful. He may, through the duration of the dream, escape from his world and his problems.

You may contend that drugs offer a quicker and more effective escape. However, drugs may take you through a world of fantasy into another world of exaggerated realism. Drugs can harm the body mentally and physically. Dreams can actually do the body no harm. The fact, they can actually increase the mental capacity of the mind. The only problem seems to lie in finding time to dream and in finding a place to dream where no one else ever goes. But, if you have a free

Senior Interview

by Andy Gram

This week we are putting Deborah (Debbie) Kay Roeske in the spotlight. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Roeske Jr. She was born on September 27, 1952. Debbie has a brother Steve and a sister, Carol. She is majoring in office practice at B.O.C.E.S.

Her activities include: F.H.A., four years; Red Cross, four years; G.A.A., four years; Future Nurses three years; and Hi Herald, one year. Debbie had a part in both the Junior and Senior plays. Her hobbies include swimming and horseback riding.

Debbie's plans for the future are incomplete at this time, but whatever she does we at Andover Central School wish her the best of luck.

Letter Of Appreciation

The 1970 Yearbook Staff would like to express its appreciation to the local merchants for their financial support. We sincerely thank you for your assistance.

Saturday afternoon (or a day off from school) and you know a place that no one else knows about, you're all set!

Purple And White

by Dan Slade

Andover was chosen as an at large entry to the Class C Sectional V Tournament. The Panthers traveled to Churchville on March 10 and played Avon. The team put out a great effort but were unable to defend against the Avon fast break. The Avon Club took an early lead and the Panthers were never able to close the gap.

High scorer for the Panthers was John Fanton with 19 Tom Polmateer and Greg Shellman netted 12 and 10 points respectively.

Girls Basketball News

by Patti Middaugh

The Andover Girls' Basketball Team played Alfred-Almond Wednesday, March 18 with Alfred-Almond emerging the victor with a score of 24 and Andover 14.

High scorers for Andover were Dawn Burrows and Maureen Thorp.

We have two very important people in our school. Yvonne Mattison and Sharon Lewis were accepted for All-State Band and All-State Chorus. Congratulations and Good Luck girls!

Who Are They?

Jeanette Kent

Cindy Preston and Bob Leonard were the first ones to figure out who last week's mystery person was — congratulations! For those of you who couldn't guess, it was your's truly — Howard Freeland. Better luck next week.

The New York State Dept. of Motor Vehicles reminds motorists that "property damage" accidents now must be reported only if damage to at least one of the vehicles is more than $200.

Denny Haver, popular Wally Taber associate, is tired but happy with this 49 inch head. His Moose was downed during filming of "Alaskan Pack In", which along with "Canadian Lunkers", is scheduled for Wellsville Central High Auditorium on Wednesday, April 1, at 8 P. M. Haver will narrate both of his all color adventure films under sponsorship of Allegany Federation of Sportsmen. It's whole family entertainment.
