Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Havens Honored on 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Havens of Wellsville, formerly of Andover, celebrated their Silver Wedding Anniversary at a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brown, sister of Mrs. Havens, on Sunday, April 19.

Mrs. Havens was the former Betty Halsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Halsey of Andover.

The table had silver candlestick holders and a three tiered anniversary cake topped with a silver "25".

Mr. and Mrs. Havens were united in marriage on April 20, 1945 by Rev. Eugene Stiff, Belmont. Their only attendants were Mrs. Havens sister, Mrs. Francis Brown of Andover and Walter Babbitt of Wellsville.

The honored couple have three children. Mrs. Jeffrey Olsen, school teacher at St. Louis, Missouri; Mr. Gary Havens, a student at the Alfred Vocation College of Wellsville; and Miss Glenene Havens at home.

Guests for the occasion were Mrs. William Shuttleworth of Batavia, Mrs. Ruth McAllister and family of Whitesville, Mrs. Mabel Halsey, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Halsey, Dolores Halsey of Andover and Miss Darla Coats. Gary and Glenene Havens of Wellsville. Their daughter was unable to attend, but surprised her parents with a telephone call in the afternoon.

The honored couple reside at 225 Stevens St., Wellsville and are members of the Lutheran Church.

Attention Fishermen!

Fishermen — Watch Out! For The Landowner — Your Host

Parking problems are usually associated with big cities, but parking can also be difficult in rural areas where trout fishermen flock to their favorite streams.

Many private landowners allow public access to streams on their land by agreement with the State Conservation Department. In return for permission to use these streams, fishermen are expected to keep things clean and not to intrude on the landowners privacy.

"Landowners who allow the public access to their streams should be treated like gracious hosts," says Carl Parker, Chief of the Bureau of Fish, who has long experience in negotiating access agreements. He offers these tips as part of the fisherman's Emily Post:

- Be sure to park where you are not blocking lanes or tear-up lawns;
 - If access path have been provided, use them. Many landowners have built these paths to protect their own privacy or property;
 - If you take along lunch, bring the sandwich wrappers and empty cans back to your own trash basket. Never Litter.
- "Above all," says Mr. Parker "remember that the secret ingredient for catching more trout in the long-run is a little consideration."
