

Andover Allocated State Aid For Youth Recreation

Governor Rockefeller recently announced that the Town of Andover and the Village of Andover in Allegany County have been allocated a total of $789.70 in State aid by the Division for Youth for a joint youth recreation project conducted by the Board of Education, marking the 22nd year that these communities and the State have joined together in providing recreation activities for area young people.

"It is important that all of our young citizens are involved in group activities which develop leadership, good sportsmanship, responsibility, an understanding of peers, and a pride and interest in the community in which they live," the Governor remarked. "These communities are to be commended for joining more than 1,200 municipalities in this effort through a phase of the Division for Youth programs."

Roslyn G. McDonald, acting director of the Division for Youth, expressed her satisfaction with the growing interest in development of community recreation programs around the state; she noted that the amount of State aid furnished by the State of New York has increased from $6.5 million in 1968 to $7.3 million last year, for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of 1,400 municipal youth bureaus, recreation projects and youth service projects.

Howard Burdick, Supervisor of the Town of Andover, and James Mulholland, Mayor of the Village of Andover indicated in the joint application for State aid that a total of $1579.40 will be spent to provide organized youth activities. Mrs. Mary K. Slade is President of the Board of Education. The summer program is under the direction of John Hewes.

Between July 6 and August 14 the joint recreation program provides arts and crafts, outdoor games, and instruction in swimming, archery, tennis and golf. Special events include a bike rodeo hikes and band concerts.

News That's Print To Fit

Due to family problems resulting from the serious illness of members of the immediate family which demanded a lot of our time, this week's paper will be a little late.

We are sorry for the inconvenience to our readers but we feel sure that you understand that emergency family matters have to come first.

Now to go back to the 4th of July Celebration — we understand that quite a few people couldn't understand the long delay in serving the Chicken Bar-B-Q dinners that was put on by the Andover Rod & Gun Club.

"Jim" Jackson, President of the Club, put a big notice in the July 9th issue of the Andover News. However, in case some of you readers didn't happen to notice it (like maybe you were on vacation or something) we thought we would mention the reasons again so you would understand the big problem.

It seems that the weather didn't co-operate as much as it has in the past — and when it rains — it really makes it difficult to keep a charcoal fire going. In fact, according to the boys, the rain put their fire out three different times — thus they weren't able to cook on any burner — until they nursed their fire back to health.

So-o-o, we hope that this didn't discourage you folks too much — and next year we will consult with the spirits — and order a nice sunshiney day. 10-4?

Lynn Pantan Attends National Meeting Future Homemakers of America

Lynn Pantan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pantan of Baker Road, Andover, is one of 1500 high school delegates that attended the National Meeting of Future Homemakers of America held at the Hilton Hotel in New York City last week, July 13-16.

The delegates selected on a state quota basis and representing 600,000 members of the national organization were accompanied by some five hundred adult advisors who are state home economic staff members or local home economic teachers.

These teenage conventioners had a full four-day program which includes outstanding speakers, business meetings, fun sessions, idea swap shops, career seminars, and the election of twelve national officers for 1970-71.

Dr. Donald Clifton, Educational Psychologist with Selection Research of Lincoln, Nebraska set the tone for the meeting in a keynote address at the opening session titled "Who Cares".

The youth delegates of Future Homemakers of America plan and conduct their own national meeting. Each state delegation has a particular responsibility during the conference.

Lynn, a member of the New York delegation acted as hostess.

Besides attending seven general sessions and numerous workshops on jobs and careers, the FHA delegates had a chance to see the wonders of New York City. Whether it was walking down Broadway or 5th Avenue, going up the Empire State Building or touring the United Nations every moment was a thrill. But the most important aspect is the girls themselves. This convention allowed girls from all over the Nation to meet, compare ideas and share unforgettable experiences.
