New Teacher

by Julie Brown

This week I write about the last of the new teachers, Mrs. Janet Bliss, our school nurse.

Mrs. Bliss is a native of Endicott, New York. She went to the School of Nursing — Hospital of University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

I asked Mrs. Bliss how she liked being School Nurse, and she replied, "Very much. There are a few Apaches around, but I've got my scalping knife handy."

Mr. and Mrs. Bliss live in Andover, and have five children and a cat. Mrs. Bliss' favorite color is deep royal blue and her hobbies including: reading, fishing, swimming, camping, touring and cooking.

In Memoriam

On November 22, 1963, "a flame went out for all those who had hoped for a just peace and a better life." These words, spoken by Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, expressed the great sense of loss felt by the world at the time of President John Kennedy's death.

I can still remember that day in school when it was announced that the President was wounded. Our teacher asked us to bow our heads for a moment of silent prayer. I can remember watching the funeral, the seemingly endless procession. And I remember watching Jacqueline Kennedy light the eternal flame over his grave, as a symbol of her hope that the memory of her husband might live forever.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy is not an easy man to forget. He was the youngest man and the first Roman Catholic to hold the office of the Presidency. Although, he barely carried the election, once he took office the American people identified with him. They liked his winning smile, admired his courage in public and in private life, and his ability to make wise and quick decisions in the time of crises. Perhaps what he will be remembered for above all else is that famous statement: "Ask not what your Country can do for you — ask what you can do for your Country."

LET'S GIVE THANKS

In the United States Thanksgiving Day is celebrated the fourth Thursday in November. But this was not always so — it has been official only since 1941. Official or not Thanksgiving Day has been celebrated since the Pilgrims first set foot on Plymouth Rock.

After a year of hardship and toil Governor Bradford decreed the first American Thanksgiving — three days of celebration and prayer. This celebration probably grew out of the harvest-home celebrations of their homeland.

During the American Revolution, when the United States was fighting for its existence eight days of thanks were observed. On November 26, 1789 General George Washington declared an official day of thanks. In the same year the protestant Episcopal Church proclaimed the first Thursday in November as a "day for prayer and giving thanks."

Until 1830 there was no official Thanksgiving Day; then New York State established an annual fixed day followed by other northern states. Virginia led the southern states in this same custom in 1855. But even though the states established individual Thanksgiving Days there was none for the entire nation.

For thirty years Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale worked for a national Thanksgiving Day. In 1863 President Lincoln proclaimed "a day of thanksgiving and praise to benefit our father." For the next seventy-five years each president set aside a day of thanksgiving — usually the last Thursday in November. In 1939 President Roosevelt set it one week ahead to help Christmas business. Finally in 1941 Congress voted the last Thursday in November as the legal, federal Thanksgiving Day.

No matter what the date for Thanksgiving Day the American people always have its spirit. This year while we celebrate let's not only laugh with our friends and relatives and gorge ourselves with turkey and pumpkin pie but let's take a few minutes out for prayer. Let's pray for those who will be spending Thanksgiving in barren, unheated shacks. Let's pray for those who would welcome our leftover food scraps as a feast. Let's pray for all the families who won't be united, for the boys in Vietnam. Let's give thanks for being as fortunate as we are and pray we can help those who are less fortunate.
