Editorial

by Laurie Tomm

On February 22, 1732, our first great president, George Washington, was born on a plantation in Westmoreland County, Virginia.

George Washington was the first president of the United States and is known as the "Father" of his country. With very old nations, whose origins are largely unknown, the founder of a nation may be almost mythical. The "Father" of the United States was a man who lived and worked less than two centuries ago.

Shortly after Washington's election, the first census was held. It showed that the new nation had nearly 4,000,000 people, most of whom were farmers. About one person in twenty lived in a town and only five port cities on the Atlantic Coast has population of more than 10,000. The largest of these, New York City, was a bustling city of 33,000.

A great deal is known about Washington. His letters, and his diaries, his journals and his official reports, the physical things he owned and used, all have been preserved. The letters of his friends and of his enemies and the newspapers and magazines of his day tell about him and the times in which he lived.

Yet there are also some myths about Washington. In the first half century after he died, many people wrote about him in such a way as to leave the impression that he was almost perfect. He became unreal to most people. They respected and sometimes almost worshiped his memory, but few people of the nineteenth century really understood him.

There are many stories and fables about Washington's childhood, but little proven fact. He is said to have been a skillful wrestler, and able to throw a stone - or perhaps a silver dollar - across the Rappahannock River. It was not until several years after Washington's death that "Parson" Weems added such fables to the cherry tree incident to his best-selling biography of the first President.

In the twentieth century many excellent books have been written about Washington. They reveal him as a warm, friendly, very human man. The writers of these biographies have pointed out that Washington had faults and weaknesses just as all people have but that he also had great strength of character and determination.

Winter Carnival

by Dennis Burrows and Elaine Bronson

Andover Central School's newly initiated Winter Carnival made a "big hit" this year. Altogether there were eleven booths and stands. These included:

- 1) The Senior Class Foodstand. The money raised for this will be used toward their trip to Washington, D. C.
- 2) The Junior Class Bowling Booth. For bowling two strikes in a row you won money; otherwise, prizes were given away. This was a big hit with everyone.
- 3) Sophomore Class sponsored a nickel pitch where you won money or prizes.
- 4) The Freshmen Fish Pond was enjoyed by all the "Little People".
- 5) The Red Cross showed television pictures of the June Flood. They also gave information of what they had done in the past. Don't forget the Red Cross Blood Bank March 9.
- 6) The Senior Band sold fudge, bumper stickers, and Happiness Buttons. The money that was raised will be used toward the purchase of new Band uniforms.
- 7) The Senior Choir had a Duck Pond which was also enjoyed by the "Little People". The money raised from this will be used to purchase the Seniors' flowers for the Spring Concert.
- 8) The Student Council set up a Dart Throw. Bob Jackson won five dollars for the highest hand - three aces.
- 9) The G. A. A. had a Shooting Gallery at the Carnival. Water pistols were used to shoot out candles.
- 10) Mrs. Copp's Spanish classes sold handmade Pinatos to raise money for their trip to Spain. A large Pinata called "El Perro" was won by Dorene Burrows.

Each of the booths was very well organized and the students expressed a great interest. The students also enjoyed hayrides and ice skating during the afternoon and evening. Those people who visited the homerooms between 7 and 8 in the evening saw some very worthwhile projects which were done by the students from K - 12. The students 7 - 12 also had the privilege of attending a dance in the gymnasium during the evening.

All in all our first Winter Carnival was a gigantic success!

Panther Prowl

by Eileen Atwell

It was victory all the way, last week as our fighting Panthers came up with a total of four wins.

It was an even split with two wins apiece for the Junior Varsity and Varsity teams. Tuesday against Canaseraga and Friday against Houghton.

Victory was a long time coming for our Jay Vee's, but they certainly did earn it. In Tuesday night's game, they never gave Canaseraga a chance, as they led throughout the game. In Friday's game with Houghton, they put up a good effort to overpower their opponents, and we congratulate them.

Our Varsity team pulled back into first place with their two victories.

Their next game is this Friday at Rushford.

Senior Interview

by Cindy Barden

On March 23, 1955 a large boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Godown. When this fragile box was taken inside and opened, out jumped a baby boy. Much to their surprise he announced himself to be Roger Lee Godown sitting nicely in with Richard, Ronald and the future Russell, Rodney and Robert. There is also a young lady among all those boys and she is Susan Godown.

Roger is now attending Belmont Vocational Center where he is learning the art of Drafting.

Roger has been quite a sportsman in his years at Andover Central School. He participated in soccer, one year; track, four years; cross country, three years and swimming, four years. Being in sports for this long ranks Roger is a Varsity Club Member. He has also been a Camera Club member for two years.

All of us at A.C.S. wish you luck in all you wish and try to do.

Veterans News

Veterans benefits are tax free and need not be counted as income when completing federal and state income tax forms, according to Mr. James J. McLaughlin, State Veteran Counselor.

The counselor pointed out, however, that although the proceeds and dividends on GI Life Insurance policies are not taxable, the earned interest on dividends left on deposit is not a benefit and, therefore, taxable.

Included in other veteran benefit payments which need not be reported are: subsistence payments to veterans in training, disability compensation and pension payments received by veterans for service-connected and non-service connected disabilities, grants to seriously disabled veterans for homes designed for wheelchair living, and grants for motor vehicles to veterans who lost their sight or the use of their limbs.

Death benefits to families of deceased veterans are also tax exempt. They include death compensation and pension, and all GI insurance proceeds.

The counselor invited veterans and their families to get full information on non-taxable veterans by visiting the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs located at the Municipal Bldg., Wellsville, N. Y. on Tuesdays, and at the City Bldg., 108 Broadway, Hornell, N. Y., on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.
