

Dr. F. G. Crawford Last of "Alfred Greats" Succumbs

Dr. Finla G. Crawford, former chairman of the board of trustees of Alfred University and former vice-chancellor of Syracuse University, died Friday, April 13, 1973 at Jones Memorial Hospital, Wellsville. He was 79 years old and lived at 11 Pleasant Ave., Andover.

President Leland Miles of Alfred University characterized Mr. Crawford as the last of the "Alfred Greats" both literally and figuratively, having been so honored on October 8, 1968 at the University's Founders Day Convocation.

"He was an inspiration to me personally. Without his enthusiasm for Alfred it is unlikely that I would have accepted my present position."

A man of energy and wit, Crawford spent his working life in the cause of higher education and public service. Born in Cameron Mills in 1894, he began a long association with Alfred University as a student in 1911.

Crawford graduated from Alfred in 1915 with a bachelor of philosophy degree. He subsequently attended the University of Wisconsin, earning a master's degree and doctorate in political science.

Following service as an Army Officer in World War I, Crawford joined the faculty of Syracuse University in 1919 with the rank of assistant professor. He was appointed full professor of political science in 1921, chairman of the department of political science in 1925 and dean of the College of Liberal Arts in 1938.

He was named vice-chancellor in 1942, retiring in 1959. As vice-chancellor Crawford wore a variety of administrative hats including those of budget director and chief officer for academic affairs. At one time or another he served also as dean or director of every academic division of the sprawling university complex.

As an administrator Crawford continued to teach courses in political science and public administration. He was the author or co-author of nine works in these fields.

In 1958 Governor Harriman appointed Crawford a trustee of the New York Power Authority, a post which he held for eight years.

He was a director of the Citizens National Bank of Wellsville and former director of the Unity Mutual Life Insurance Company of Syracuse. He was also a past chairman of the Syracuse Regional Hospital Authority, a member of the American Legion, the American Society for Public Administration, and a former trustee of the village of Andover.

Crawford was elected to Alfred University's board of trustees in 1935. He served as board chairman from 1963 to 1968, and at his death was a life trustee.

Alfred University awarded him the honorary degree of doctor of laws in 1933. He received the coveted Recognition award of the University's Alumni Association in 1966.

The many children and mothers line up at the "Starting Line" ready for the mad scramble to seek the prize eggs and other goodies. The one to two year olds were lined up on the tennis courts so all of the children pictured here were in the 3 - 5 and 6 - 11 age bracket. News Photo

News That's Print To Fit

Well Folks, after all the excitement over the Maple Festival, who would have thought that the pictures that we obtained thru the courtesy of "Dick" Wittie of the Maple Festivities to print in this week's paper would get crowded off the front page by more timely news — both sad — and happy. However, that seems to go with the Newspaper game, and we can't change it — although sometimes we would like to!

To begin with, in mentioning last week's paper, how did you like that real "blooper" on the front page? In the "News Game" this is where the mythical "type lice" enter the picture. Yep, they come in during the "dark of night" and move hand set type around in order to "shake the Printers out of their trees"! However, when you are setting hand type at — like 4:30 a. m. — without even having been to bed, and the proof reader is in the same shape — well, things look pretty much alike to tired and bleary eyes. And, Lo! and Behold, by the time you get the press run half-way thru — and you realize that "somethin' ain't kosher!" — well by that time its too late. Let everyone get a laugh at our expense — no discrimination or partiality shown.

Oh, yes, in mentioning the pictures that we have of the Maple Festival, "Dick" Wittie tells us that he is going to put a display board in the window of his Photo Shop on Main St., with copies of many of the black & white as well as colored pictures that he took during the two-day Festival. These will be on sale for a nominal sum — and if you want more, or larger ones, they can be printed up on order. 10-4?

And, while on the Maple Festival bit, we feel it is important to "nip a nasty rumor in the bud" by stating the facts and the truth. Yep, despite the fact that one of the goals of this Lions Club project was to give every non-profit organization that wanted to work — a chance to earn some money for their activities — now someone who is essentially very uninformed has started a rumor that is absolutely NOT TRUE! The Lions Club did not charge ANY NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATION ANY FEE for their display, sales booth, or what have you!!! If any NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATION PAID ANY ONE A FEE for their booth — we want to know who it was given to so we can get your money back — if humanly possibly! Fair enough?

Andover Lions Easter Egg Hunt Gigantic Success

The second annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Andover Lions Club turned out to be a gigantic success with nearly 1,000 (quote Radio Station WLSV live broadcast of the event), participating from the ages of 1 year to twelve years of age. Needless to say they were not all Andover children as was discovered when getting the names and addresses of the winners. Children from Alfred, Elm Valley and Wellsville were among the "Human Vacuum Cleaners" that cleaned up the entire ACS Playground in a matter of just a few minutes.

According to "Phil" Fitch, chairman of the annual event, over 8,000 prizes were scattered over the athletic field with a total of over $500 value.

Thirty-one grand prizes purchased by the Andover Lions Club were awarded in the following categories: 5 prizes for the 1 - 2 year olds; 10 prizes for the 3 thru 5 year olds; 15 prizes for the 6 thru 11 year bracket; and the last prize went to the child that won the trash pick-up prize.

It took the 20 Lions Club Members nearly an hour to scatter the "goodies" all over the school grounds — but it only took around 20 minutes for the youngsters to really "sweep the field clean".

Donations of merchandise for the Easter Egg Hunt were received from: Joe Reccio, Pepsi-Cola Co.; Troyer Farms, Potato Chips; Frito Lays; Elmira Tobacco Co., Inc. (Candy); Stroehmann's Bakery; Guilford Dairy; Keebler Cookie Co.; and several other distributors.

Next year it is planned to break the upper age group into two divisions from 6 - 8 and 9 - 11 so the smaller children in the 6 - 11 age group will have better results.
